HOUSE CONTINUES DISCUSSION OF NAVAL BILL

HAGGLES OVER EVERY LINE

NAVY IS NOT RESTRICTED TO HOLLAND TYPE.

LILLEY SCORED BY KNOWLAND

Connecticut Representative Accused of Making Possibly False and Misleading Statements—Bonynge, Colorado, Takes Active Part.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The long existing controversy as to whether the United States navy should have submarine torpedo boats of the Holland type, as recommended by the committee on naval affairs, was settled in the House of Representatives today when, after a lengthy and lively debate, the proviso limiting the authority of the navy to purchase only boats of the Holland type was stricken out. The effect of this action was to give the secretary a free hand in the selection of submarine boats. The members haggled over almost every line of the three pages of the bill remaining to be disposed of when the House met, but the principal action was that with regard to the submarines.

A humorous speech by Mr. Williams, in which he had several friendly clashes with Mr. Hobson over warships and balloons, commanded the attention of the House for some time.

Quorum Hard to Get.

Before consideration of the naval appropriation bill could be resumed, it was necessary to obtain a quorum and this proceeding occasioned considerable delay. When the bill was finally got under way, Mr. Madden (Ill) made a point of order against the provision relating to the method of contracting for the torpedo boat destroyers. The chair sustained the point.

A proposed amendment by Mr. Hughes, (N. J.) making the eight-hour law applicable to laborers or mechanics doing any part of the work of new construction authorized by the bill, except in cases of national emergency, lost on a point of order by Mr. Foss. Mr. Williams appealed from the decision, but the chair was sustained 115 to 42. When the section relating to the eight submarine torpedo boats was reached, Mr. Hill, (Conn.) made a point of order against the proviso restricting the secretary of the navy to the selection of "all such boats heretofore determined to be superior as the result of competitive tests."

Change of Existing Law.

Mr. Hill vehemently declared that the proviso was a change of existing law. If he could have his way, he said, he would strike out the whole section, but inasmuch as he was unable to do that he would seek partly to strike it out. His contention was vigorously opposed by Mr. Roberts of Massachusetts.

The chair ruled against Mr. Hill, maintaining that inasmuch as these boats were appropriated for it was legitimate to describe the boats. Mr. Hill thereupon made a point of order against the entire paragraph.

A long wrangle ensued over the point raised by Mr. Hill, but the chair ruled in his favor and the authorization for submarines went out of the bill.

The paragraph having gone out, several amendments were offered, among these being one by Mr. Olcott of New York, slightly changing the phraseology of the submarine proposition and another by Bonynge of Colorado, authorizing the secretary "to construct for or purchase" the eight submarines, but before doing so he shall determine the comparative efficiency of the different types of boats. Despite vigorous objection by Mr. Hill the chair overruled a point of order made

NEGROES MAY WIN OUT

DISCRIMINATION OF RAILWAYS TO BE TAKEN TO COURTS.

Proceedings Will be Instituted Against the N. C. & St. L. Under Interstate Commerce Act.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The department of justice today decided to institute proceedings under the interstate commerce act to compel the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railroad company to furnish dressing rooms to its negro passengers, saying the facilities now furnished to white passengers are not equal to those furnished to white people.

The commission has complained to the interstate commerce commission against the railway company by a negro woman, alleging discrimination. After an investigation the commission ordered the railway company to desist from its discrimination, which order, it is asserted, has not been complied with. The matter was called to the attention of the commission, who referred it to the attorney general.

Instructions to the United States attorney at Nashville are being prepared, and it is expected suit will be begun in that city within a short time.

SUGGESTIONS ON ANTITRUST LAW

LITTLEFIELD'S SUBCOMMITTEE HEARS OPINIONS.

CARNEGIE SUBMITS HIS VIEWS

NATIONAL CIVIC FEDERATION BILL CONSIDERED.

SPECIFIES POINT OF CONTROL

Interstate Commerce Commission, Financier Declares, Should Be Arbitrator of All Questions of Dispute Arising Under Operation of Measure.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Hearings on the National Civic Federation bill, to amend the Sherman antitrust law, were continued today before Chairman Littlefield's subcommittee on the House judiciary committee. Seth Low, president of the federation, submitted amendments to his bill, so altering its provision that the interstate commerce commission, instead of the President and the commissioner of corporations, shall be the arbitrator of all matters of reference, designation and difficulty which would arise under the operation of the bill. Mr. Low said these amendments had been agreed upon as likely to meet and satisfy the most serious of the objections thus far urged against the federation's measure.

Mr. Low laid before the committee a letter from Andrew Carnegie, in support of the proposed changes. Mr. Carnegie's letter was written with the purpose of supporting the idea that authority should not be divided between the interstate commerce commission and other bodies and other officials, but before taking up that point he discussed other questions. He considered that it was necessary for the government to exercise control over common carriers engaged in interstate commerce, and declared that this power should be lodged in the interstate commerce commission. He suggests that industrial concerns engaged in interstate traffic should be similarly controlled and proceeds:

One Authority Sufficient.

"I cannot too strongly advise against there being more than one authority to pass upon such questions and that should be the interstate commerce commission. If common carriers be placed under one commission and industrial interstate commerce under the bureau of corporations, there must arise insidious comparisons between the two. Such comparisons will be publicly made. The party denied by the one will be disposed to feel that the other takes more liberal views and vice versa, and vent his disappointment. Imagine two supreme courts. The standing of both courts would be lowered. No reason why the interstate commerce commission should not deal with the whole subject and every reason why it should. Its members will get a wider view of the whole question in its different phases. It is really one question, not two. We have seen, for instance, that the steel rail question is much upon a par with the common carrier question, both being exceptional.

"Object Is to Rob."

"One point seems to be essential—without it little general progress can be made—viz: When new commissions are proposed the first question must always be: 'What is the object sought?' In 99 cases out of 100 it will undoubtedly be to rob the community of its right to the benefits of free competition, disguise it as it may; therefore, the commission's duty is to obtain satisfactory proof that the application is to cover an exceptional case. The conditions must be peculiar as those of common carriers and steel rail agreements are. If not, the application should be denied. If granted, then safeguards must be taken to safeguard as nearly as possible to consumers the results that competition would bring. Nothing should prevent this. That the combination be reasonable is not sufficient.

"We are doing pioneer work just now work that this vast union must do sooner or later, but the history of the supreme court should lead us to press forward now. The interstate commerce commission has already made it much better stuff than the supreme court did."

Henry Towne Speaks.

Henry Towne, representing the Merchants association of New York, opposed the federation bill.

"We business men," he said, "want a law which will define our rights, which will tell us what we may and what we may not do. The federation bill does not do this."

In conclusion Mr. Towne said that the best course for congress to pursue would be to appoint a competent commission, which, during the recess, shall collect evidence, study the problem and report its conclusions as a basis for constructive legislation during the session of Congress which will begin next December.

MARLOWE'S NAME DROPPED

BOSTON, April 16.—Attorney Percy A. Brigham, of this city, who filed a divorce libel in the Essex county superior court at Salem recently on behalf of Chas L. Von Herrmann against Kate S. Von Herrmann, in which the actress, Miss Julia Marlowe, and Mrs. Maude Thatcher Backus of Brooklyn were named as co-respondents, has had the libel dismissed on motion before Judge Richardson in the superior court. This means that the names of Miss Marlowe and Mrs. Backus are eliminated from the case.

ANOTHER "FREEDOM OF SPEECH" OUTRAGE.

"TARS" ENJOY RESPITE

SAILORS SWARM ASHORE FROM BATTLESHIPS.

San Diego Is Royally Entertaining Monster Fleet Trip Into Country for Officers.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 16.—After two days of pageantry on sea and land, there was a restful lull in San Diego's celebration in honor of the American battleship fleet today. Ninety-two of the officers, including Rear Admiral Thomas, were entertained at a picnic some 30 odd miles in the country passing through lemon, orange and olive groves on the way. More than 100 citizens accompanied the officers, and 44 automobiles were required to accommodate the party. At the conclusion of the noonday luncheon, spread on a grassy lawn, there were a number of informal speeches. It was late in the evening when the officers returned from the outing.

Boat races on the bay during the morning, a baseball game this afternoon, free lemonade and fruit, horseback rides, trolley excursions and sightseeing tours occupied the attention of the sailors who came ashore on liberty. The streets down town were filled with the bluejackets, every passerby had a word of welcome for them, and, following out their individual desires, they had a splendid time on this, their first day of liberty in an American city in more than four months. All of the 16 vessels of the fleet, at anchorage off Coronado, were thrown open to visitors from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., and the excursion launches, running out to sea, had all they could do to handle the interested throngs, which in most cases, set foot upon a man-of-war for the first time in their lives.

The third day of the fleet's stay ended with an extensive fireworks display from a barge anchored in the center of the bay. The aerial flights of all manner of pyrotechnic wonders could be seen for miles around, and were enjoyed alike by the sailors on the fleet and the people ashore. The display opened with a rear admiral's salute of 13 bombs, exploding high in the air. Then followed a brilliant ascension of 36 signal rockets. Next, in a burst of variegated lights, the bay was illuminated with 25 floating beacons, set adrift from the barge and burning 15 minutes. Other features of the fire were showers of liquid gold, hanging chains, azure mists, chromatic stars, floating festoons, eagles in fire, volleys of cobras, college rockets, weird waterfalls, a mystic flash curtain, flights of bouquet rockets in groups and one hundred and scores of other enchantingly named novelties.

There was considerable entertainment by the officers on board today, luncheons and dinner parties predominating.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—It is expected at the navy department that the Atlantic battleship fleet, after touching in Auckland, New Zealand, on its way around the world, will, in all probability, go first to Sydney and thence to Melbourne, the whole fleet visiting both places. After leaving Melbourne, the vessels will sail around Australia and up to Manila. Previous announcements that the fleet, with a view to saving time, would be divided between Sydney and Melbourne, caused manifestations of regret by the people of those places, who prefer a shorter visit from the whole fleet rather than a longer one from any portion of it.

TWO MEN ROB TRAIN

Hold Up Passengers in Sleeper of Northern Pacific.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 16.—Northern Pacific westbound passenger train, leaving the Union depot here tonight at 8 o'clock, was held up by two men just outside the city limits, and $41 and two watches taken from the passengers.

The men boarded the train here and, reaching the outskirts of the city, the robbers entered one of the sleeping cars and at the points of pistols commanded the passengers to hold up their hands, one of the men standing guard while the other searched his victims. When the train slowed down at a junction west of here, the men jumped off and escaped.

CLAPP HEAP BIG CHIEF

SENATOR IS HONORED BY PLENTY COOS, CROW TRIBE.

Huge War Bonnet Is Presented to Chairman of Committee on Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Senator Clapp of Minnesota, chairman of the committee on Indian affairs, is now a "heap big Indian" chief of the Crow tribe. He was given a great surprise today by Chief Plenty Coos and his fellow tribesmen, who have been witnesses before the Indian committee for the past three weeks. The chief marched into the committee room at the head of the band and, through an interpreter, phlegmatically informed the senator that the treatment that had been accorded the Indians was highly appreciated and that an appropriate gift was due the white chief of the committee.

Chief Plenty Coos then took from one of his followers a huge war bonnet, which had been the chief's insignia of rank and worn by him whenever he went into battle. He said that he was now a man of peace and that the bonnet was of less value to him on the reservation than it would be to the senator in congress, and therefore he wanted the senator to take it. Senator Clapp was completely flabbergasted, according to his own description of his emotions. He took the war bonnet and thanked the chief.

Plenty Coos and his band will start for their reservation home in Montana tomorrow.

NEW YORK DEMOCRATS BRING MEETING TO CLOSE.

New State Committee Makes Initial Move Toward Reorganizing of Kings County Democracy.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The gathering of the forces of the state Democracy, which has resulted in exciting scenes and sensational actions, chief of which was the deposition of Senator Patrick H. McCarren as leader in the Kings county, came to an end today with a meeting of the new state committee. The meeting took place at the Hotel Victoria and lasted hardly more than half an hour. The committee re-elected William J. Conners of Buffalo as chairman, and appointed a committee of 12 to reorganize the Democracy of Kings county.

RIOT AND BLOODSHED

SERIOUS TROUBLE AT CHESTER, PA.

Street Car Strike Results in Calling Out of State Troops—Two Men Shot, Many Injured.

CHESTER, Pa., April 16.—Riot and bloodshed marked the third day of the street car strike here today, when the Chester Traction company attempted to operate its cars with imported strike breakers. The strikers and their sympathizers stormed a trolley car that was started out of the barns, and in the melee two men were shot. William Griesemer, a claim agent for the company, was struck on the arm by a bullet, and William Borgmann, the motorman who had charge of the car, was struck in the foot by another bullet. He was dragged from the car and beaten and was rescued from the angry strikers and their sympathizers with difficulty. Griesemer, besides being wounded, received a dislocated shoulder. Several other traction employes were also cut and bruised.

A mob of fully 1,000 men stood guard near the trolley barns at daybreak awaiting a move on the part of the traction officials, and when the first car was run out on the tracks, followed by the appearance of about 40 strike breakers in charge of Griesemer, the crowd became furious. The car was attacked and the strike breakers set upon. The local police were unable to cope with the situation, and after many conferences between the traction and city officials, it was decided to ask Governor Stuart to send the state constabulary to take charge of the situation. The request for the state police was sent to the governor by Mayor Johnson, and troop A from Greensburg, in command of Captain Fitcher and Lieutenant Lanloonnees, and troop C of Reading, were ordered to the scene of the disorder.

Captain John C. Groome of Philadelphia, superintendent of the constabulary, took personal command of the troops. Troop C arrived late tonight and encamped about two miles outside of the city limits, and the Greensburg men are expected to reach here early tomorrow morning.

There are 24 men in command of Captain Fitcher and about the same number in the troop sent from Reading. The latter are supplied with ammunition and equipment sufficient to meet any emergency.

The local police, even though augmented by 75 men specially sworn in, have been unable to give the trolley company any protection. No arrests were made in connection with the disorder today.

CRIMINALS ORGANIZED

Austrian Jew Fears Death If He Reveals Names in Plot.

PORTLAND, Ore., April 16.—Adolph Adler, the young Austrian Jew who was arrested yesterday after he had addressed a written demand for $400 to surmount either Carnegie or a wealthy resident of Portland, Ore., or suffer death for his failure to meet the demand, still refuses to reveal the names of the organizers of the plot. Adler says that if he told who sent him to Siegel he and his family in Austria would be killed. He declares there are hundreds of men in this country with Nihilist tendencies, and that they are more or less organized. The man declares he left Austria several years ago to escape the mental torture which followed his taking up socialistic questions, and that he was recognized by one of the Nihilists here two weeks ago and told to do their bidding.

BUSINESS MEN UP IN ARMS

COMMISSIONERS MAY CUT OFF SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS.

WOULD HURT MANY INTERESTS

TECHNICALITY IS RESPONSIBLE FOR CONTEMPLATED ACTION.

VIEW OF PUBLIC IS WANTED

County Has No Strictly Legal Right to Give Money for Band Concerts, to Chamber of Commerce, Public Library, Humane Society.

Consternation reigns in business circles as a result of the anticipated action of the county commissioners in cutting off certain appropriations that have been made regularly for several years and which have come to be looked upon as a certainty. The point has been raised that the commissioners have not acted in accordance with the law in making these appropriations and that they will be discontinued in the future.

It has been the custom for the commissioners to allow stated sums from the contingent fund to be devoted to public institutions, such as the Chamber of Commerce, the public library, the El Paso County Humane society, the El Paso County Horticultural society, the El Paso County Poultry association and the Midland band concerts. The various amounts allotted to these public institutions have aggregated annually something like $2,500.

Technically Illegal.

When the point was raised recently by County Commissioner Banta, County Attorney R. L. Holland was asked for an opinion as to the legality of allowing these sums to the institutions named. The opinion given was adverse, as the technical construction of the law is such that a special levy must be made for all appropriations. The moneys have been allowed out of the contingent fund on the ground that every dollar voted was devoted to furthering the best interests of the county and was indirectly repaid. Business men believe that the results have demonstrated that the county commissioners acted wisely in making the appropriations specified.

What It Will Mean.

If the usual appropriations are discontinued, the public library will be forced to abandon its service to residents of the county outside the city limits, the Chamber of Commerce will be crippled in its work to the extent of $500 a year, the Humane society will have $200 a year less to work with and the Saturday afternoon concerts of the Midland band during the summer months will have to be omitted unless a fund approximating $1,000 is raised for the purpose from some other source. The Poultry association and Horticultural society will also have to look elsewhere for support.

No Protest Ever Made.

It was anticipated that the county attorney's opinion would be adverse to the custom that has prevailed for years. The appropriations have always been made after a full investigation of the merits of the various institutions benefited and the results were of such character that no protest was made by tax payers. On the contrary, the action on the part of the commissioners was deemed wise and for the best interests of the community.

No formal decision in the matter has yet been reached, but the subject is being widely discussed in business circles. The sentiment seems to be strong in favor of continuing the appropriations as in the past and it is stated by some interested citizens that if this is not done ways and means will be found whereby the commissioners can make the appropriations in the future in strict compliance with the law. One member of the board stated that an expression from the tax paying public on the subject would be appreciated.

CABLE APPEAL TO STOLYPIN

Prominent Americans Intercede for Nicholas Tchaikovsky.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Ex-Mayor Seth Low of New York, Mayor Busse of Chicago, Bishop Greer of New York, Mark Twain and many other prominent persons of New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, have united in another cable appeal to Premier Stolypin, at St. Petersburg in behalf of Nicholas Tchaikovsky, now imprisoned in a Russian fortress. The appeal says:

"Thousands of the American friends of Nicholas Tchaikovsky, deeply appreciating the courteous reception of our previous communications, most respectfully call attention to the imprisonment of Tchaikovsky for several months without trial and without charges publicly announced, and to his reported illness. A speedy trial or the release of Tchaikovsky, if there are no charges against him, would give great satisfaction to multitudes of friends of Russia in America."

ELEPHANTS GO ON A RAMPAGE

BIG BEAST CRASHES THROUGH CALIFORNIA HOTEL.

GUESTS FLEE PANICSTRICKEN

Great Excitement at Riverside, Cal., as Result of Fire at Standard Oil Company's Storage Tanks. Loss to Company Will Reach Thousands.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., April 16.—As the result of a fire which spread early this afternoon at the Standard Oil company's storage tanks, a herd of elephants were stampeded. L. J. Worsley lies at the city hospital fatally burned, and Miss Ella Gibbs, a church deaconess, is dead. A sudden boom, which was heard for 30 miles, marked the explosion of the large oil tank. Worsley was a driver of the delivery wagon from which the fire was communicated to the tanks and was hurled many yards from the spot and was picked up with his clothing ablaze. The flames spread immediately to the tanks, which instantly became a mass of flames.

A circus, three blocks distant, was about to open for the afternoon performance. The explosion and the fire caused the showmen to lower the tents after dispersing the crowd which had assembled. The herd of elephants became uncontrollable and they dashed to the east side of town, knocking down fences, outhouses and destroying orchards that lay in their path. Many persons narrowly escaped the infuriated animals.

Elephant Kills and Maims.

In a short time, however, all but the largest of the elephants were rounded up. The leader of the herd then changed his course and entered the center of the city, one mile distant. He entered the court of the Glenwood hotel, one of the famous resorts of the coast. Miss Gibbs was in the yard in front of the house. The elephant pinned her against the house between his tusks, threw her to the ground and trampled upon her, crushing her chest so that she died at 10 o'clock tonight. The animal then proceeded to the doorway, the guests running, panicstricken indoors. B. P. Chapman, a guest of the house, attempted to swerve the animal from the court. He was knocked down and had several ribs broken and otherwise injured.

The beast crashed through the doorway, walked through the barber shop and out on the main streets, crossed the street, crashed through the heavy plate glass window of a store. Before being rounded up it left downtown public stable, the animal trampled on another man and seriously gored him with his tusks.

Animal Finally Captured.

One of the keepers attempted to subdue the animal, but was hurled over a high fence, sustaining painful injuries. Not until four other elephants were brought to the stable was the huge beast got under control and taken to the circus grounds.

By this time the entire town was in an uproar. The ladies of the east side were afraid to venture into the streets fearing that the herd had not been captured.

The fire of the oil tanks continued throughout the afternoon and 50,000 gallons of oil were consumed, including the contents of the exploded tanks and much case goods. Two large tanks containing a high grade nonexploding oil escaped the flames. The oil loss was $7,000 and the loss to the buildings is $4,000.

Miss Ella Gibbs, who died tonight was a deaconess in the Congregational church of this city before coming here about three years ago she had been in the employ of the Sisters of Charity.

MINNESOTA FOR TAFT

DELEGATES TO CHICAGO CONVENTION INSTRUCTED.

Action of State Republican Convention Insures Casting of 22 Votes for the Secretary of War.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 16.—The Minnesota Republican state convention elected four delegates-at-large to the national convention at Chicago and instructed them to vote for Taft until he is rejected by the convention.

The action of the convention today insures that the solid delegation of Minnesota in the national convention will be cast for the secretary of war as all the 15 district delegates are under Taft instructions.

In addition to naming delegates at large, the convention today named four alternates-at-large, nominated 11 presidential electors, adopted a platform indorsing the administration of President Roosevelt and especially his efforts for the establishment of a sound financial system, the enforcement of the laws and proper regulation of corporations" and declares for revision of the tariff by a Republican Congress.

SETTLES MATTER OF SUBMARINES

by him and the amendment was discussed at length.

Mr. Roberts bitterly opposed the Bonynge amendment, declaring that the limitation on the secretary of the navy in the original submarine amendment was practically identical with the battleship provision, requiring him to build those two ships along the lines of the Delaware.

Matter of Favoritism.

"The only people," said Mr. Roberts, "who have got any encouragement out of this matter of favoritism is the Lake company, whose boat was discredited in the trial last spring."

The Lake boat, he declared, was found to be radically defective, "and yet," he said, "notwithstanding that fact, that company came up and got a contract for $450,000 for one of those discredited boats, and in that contract the secretary of the navy encourages that company to the extent of $225,000, being for interest on the money they are going to put into it."

Mr. Bonynge inquired if the naval committee had examined into the Denver boat, but Mr. Roberts declared he did not know what that had to do with the whining of the Lake people. He asserted that the language of the Bonynge amendment was in the language of Simon Lake, but Mr. Bonynge sharply retorted that the words were from the acts of 1907.

Mr. Underwood of Alabama presented an amendment striking out the proviso of the original provision, leaving it discretionary with the secretary of the navy as to the type he shall select.

A still further amendment was offered by Mr. Humphrey of Washington, providing for the construction of some of the submarines on the Pacific coast.

No Amendments Adopted.

The Olcott and Underwood amendments were adopted, 108 to 104; the Humphrey amendment was lost on a point of order, as was also the Bonynge amendment. As finally amended, the bill authorizes the eight submarines, but strips the secretary of the navy of the limitation to contract only for boats of the Holland type.

On a point of order by Mr. Stafford of Wisconsin, there was stricken from the bill the provision authorizing a submarine destroyer torpedo boat.

There was a brief discussion over the old question of armor plate and its cost. Mr. Hitchcock, Nebraska, contended that there really was no competition, and he offered an amendment fixing the price at $375 a ton of 2,240 pounds.

Mr. Tawney insisted that there was competition, and said that as a result of it the government saved $400,000 on the battleships Delaware and North Dakota alone.

After a long consideration of the question of a point of order against the amendment raised by Mr. Foss, the chair sustained that the amendment was lost.

Knowland Scores Lilley.

In a brief speech, Mr. Knowland of California blamed Mr. Lilley of Connecticut for making possibly false and misleading statements in his speech of last week regarding worthless navy yards, in which he stated that the Mare Island navy yard was one of them. Mr. Knowland said:

"While like Don Quixote, Mr. Lilley buckles on his armor, dons his helmet, and in place of the lance substitutes the pen and, starting out, strikes out right and left, even venturing into submarine depths. I can but wish him God speed, for I know that his enjoyment is keen and that the country is amused if not enlightened."

Mr. Lilley, he said, had grossly misrepresented the facts regarding the Mare Island dry dock in the matter of work done and money paid out, and he quoted official figures to substantiate his denial. He then hurled a bomb at Mr. Lilley and charged that that gentleman had at New London, Conn., in his own district, a useless navy yard, on which considerable sums are being uselessly expended.

Replying briefly, Mr. Lilley declared that his figures were obtained from the navy department and that he would just as soon abandon the New London yard as any other one, should it be shown to be useless.

Tawney Vehemently Opposes.

Mr. Tawney vehemently opposed the adoption without careful investigation of an amendment by Mr. Padgett of Tennessee, appropriating $5,563,369 for repairs to 18 vessels, among which are the following: San Francisco, $609,250; Baltimore, $683,300; Alabama, $667,500; Illinois, $667,500; Iowa, $557,500; Kearsarge, $673,500; Kentucky, $673,600; Bennington, $195,750. The money is to be paid out of the appropriation of $6,000,000 for construction and repair of vessels. The amendment was adopted without division.

Consideration of the bill was concluded and it was passed under suspension of the rules, the idea being to forestall the Democrats in the matter of unnecessary roll calls.

The vote resulted: Yeas, 264; nays, 12; the latter being Messrs. Byrd, Mississippi; Garner, Texas; Gregg, Texas; May, Virginia; Helm, Kentucky; Jones, Virginia; Lamar, Missouri; Lee, Georgia; Russell, Texas; Sherwood, Ohio; Slayden and Stephens, Texas.

LYNCHING THREATENED

Cowboys, Friends of Assaulted Pueblo Officer, Desire Revenge.

PUEBLO, Colo., April 16.—As the result of a murderous assault made this morning on County Jailer Jeff Steele by Edward McDonald, a negro who has two months more to serve, it was feared that a mob would storm the jail to lynch McDonald.

About 25 cowboys arrived in the city shortly after dark. All were friends of the wounded jailer, and as they were joined by townspeople, the report reached the county officers that the raid would be made at 12:30. A heavy guard was placed at the jail, but at 1 o'clock the mob had not put in an appearance.

Steele is fatally injured and should he die, the officers fear mob violence.

CALIFORNIA POLITICIAN DEAD

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 16.—Ford K. Rule, former president of the chamber of commerce, former treasurer and a director of the Salt Lake railroad, and well known throughout California as a Republican leader, died early this morning at his home in this city after a brief illness of three days, aged 55.

Mr. Rule was formerly a resident of Kansas City. He leaves a widow and three sons.

CONVENTION ADJOURNS

county Democracy in accordance with a resolution by the state convention was unanimously agreed to by the committee. The committee is headed by Arthur McLean of Orange county. J. Sergeant Cram of New York is a member of the committee.

Tonight Chairman Conners left for Rochester where he is expected to confer with W. J. Bryan some time Friday. It is said he may try to arrange for a meeting between Bryan, Charles F. Murphy and himself at some early date.

Following the adjournment Frank S. Mott, Cataraugus county, said:

"The only remedy for an unjust procedure is a contesting delegation to a real Democratic convention which, it is said, will be held in Denver in July."

Senator McCarren and the delegates from three of the Kings county districts were unseated after a hard fought contest by their leader in which Senator McCarren that pleaded for the right of his delegates to be seated and then delivered a remarkable and sensational warning to the convention in which he asserted that if the Kings county men were thrown out none of those present would live to see a Democratic mayor in New York city.

After the convention Senator McCarren said:

"The fight has just begun. We will carry this matter into the Denver convention and fight for the seating of our national convention delegates."

Chairman Conners said: "The people can judge whether McCafren got a fair deal or not. The vote of the convention on that score of 825 against 89 speaks for itself. McCarren's leadership in Brooklyn was inimical to the Democracy of the county and consequently of the state."

Chairman Conners of the state Democratic committee appeared at the headquarters in the Hotel Victoria this afternoon and when questioned about the convention last night declared that action in the case of Senator McCarren was entirely justified.

"Pat McCarren is not as dangerous outside of the organization as he is inside," he said. "He has traded time and time again with the Republicans and has sold out Democrats. This is wrong and the Democrats of Brooklyn wanted him removed. I want to have these fellows understand that if you want to be a Democrat you have got to be a loyal Democrat. If you can't be a loyal Democrat out you go."

"Do you think there will be an anti-snap convention?"

"Anti-snap what? Anti-snap convention, rump, I hear that the race track touts are going to have a convention. I guess that all [illegible] or whatever you call it, convention there will be."

"Is there any break between you and Charles F. Murphy?"

"No, no break. A cannon ball could not part us."

He was told that Sheriff Smith of Erie county, had said that the Erie county organization would not recognize him as state committeeman.

"What," he exclaimed, "what, not recognize me? Why I am going back to Buffalo and the fellows there will fall down before me like chaff before the wind."

BOYCOTT NOT SERIOUS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—Motoforio Shiraishi, general manager of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha Steamship company, the Japanese line to the orient, arrived today on the steamer Hongkong from Yokohama. Speaking of the Chinese boycott on Japanese goods on account of the Tatsu Maru seizure, he said:

"It is felt to a considerable extent, but the Hongkong experienced no difficulty in taking on full cargoes at either Shanghai or Hongkong. There is much talk, of course, about the boycott in the orient, but I don't think that it will reach any serious proportions."

THREE MORE CORPSES FOUND

Nine Bodies Recovered From Ruins of Chelsea Conflagration.

BOSTON, April 16.—Three more corpses were recovered late today from the ruins of Sunday's fire in Chelsea, making the total number now recovered nine. In addition, two persons have died this week of causes incident to the fire.

The bodies recovered today were those of Mrs. Minnie L. Fenwick, wife of Dr. J. B. Fenwick, one of the leading physicians in Chelsea; Mrs. Walter Harris, of Glenridge, niece of Mrs. Fenwick and Miss Vinie Boyer of Chelsea, a maid in the employ of the Fenwick family.

LIGHT ON DARK PLOT

CROZIER OF DELAWARE EXPOSES FINANCIAL SCHEME.

Aldrich Bill Is a Gambling Game, Promoted by Gamblers for Gambling Purposes.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—In picturesque language, at times violently denunciatory, Alfred O. Crozier of Wilmington, Del., today told the House committee on banking and currency that he had unearthed a secret scheme for a compromise on the Aldrich currency bill. He intimated plainly that the members of the currency commission and the American Bankers association did not act fairly with the banking and currency committee in unanimously opposing the Aldrich bill yesterday.

While opposing the bill "on principle" he said, "the members of that commission objected to it because the emergency currency was to be at 6 per cent interest and are ready to support it now if the interest is reduced to 3 per cent."

"Last evening our distinguished banking friends had a conference," he said. "Today they are having another with the wicked promoters of the wicked Aldrich and Vreeland bills. What for? They are agreeing on a compromise. On what basis? Just a simple little amendment reducing the tax to 3 per cent and some other minor changes."

He declared that this conference was only held after it was stated that the hearings before the banking and currency committee had been closed.

"If this committee had not honored me with this opportunity to speak at this postscript to the public hearing," said Mr. Crozier, "and if one of the distinguished bankers who addressed you yesterday had not mistaken me last evening for one of their fraternity, and unreservedly told me the whole program, the trick would have been turned, quickly and suddenly. The business interests of the country might never have known that they had been sold out by their banking partners, and even this committee might not in time become aware that the great men who appeared here against the bill openly were, in fact, favoring it privately.

"The Aldrich bills," Mr. Crozier declared, "is a gambling game from start to finish, brought here by gamblers and promoted by gamblers for gambling purposes."

He asserted stoutly that he knew the late financial stringency was brought on deliberately by Wall Street men.

"I was told in Wall Street that such a measure as the Aldrich bill would be brought before the Congress, and that a panic would precede it."

VESSELS DAMAGED BY CRASH

Two Ocean Liners Collide in Lower New York Bay—No Lives Lost and No One Hurt.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Two ocean liners, the Monterey of the Ward line, bound for Havana, and the Danish steamer, United States, of the Scandinavian-American line, bound for Copenhagen, collided in the main ship channel in lower New York bay. Both vessels were damaged, but no lives were lost and no one, so far as known, was injured. The Monterey had her stern damaged and several of her bow plates loosened, but she was able to return to her dock, where her passengers disembarked. They will be forwarded to Havana by another steamer, for it is probable she will have to go into dry dock for repairs.

The United States was more seriously damaged. A large hole was stove in her hull on the starboard side, abaft the engines, and so threatening was its nature that it was deemed wise to run her aground on a bank on the channel's edge. There the steamer is resting easily tonight, the weather being clear and calm.

FLOOD DAMAGE IS NOMINAL

High Water Caused by Break in Hauser Lake Power Dam, Tuesday, Has Receded.

HELENA, Mont., April 16.—The high water in the Missouri river, north of this city, caused by the break in the Hauser lake power dam, on Tuesday, has receded, and the river is now about at its normal stage. Since the land on both sides of the river from Hauser lake to Holter, the site of the proposed third dam, a distance of more than 25 miles, is practically all owned by the Helena Power Transmission company, the property loss, aside from the damage to the structure, will be nominal.

The latest reports from Craig, in the northern part of this county, indicate that the damage to property in that village will not exceed $10,000. Work will be begun at once repairing the partly wrecked structure, according to M. H. Gerry, Jr., general manager of the company. There was no property loss at Great Falls as a result of the floodwaters. The Great Northern railway, it is announced today, will resume service between Helena and Great Falls by Saturday evening.

SULLIVANITES WILL FIGHT

Will Make Effort to Control Republican County Convention.

Special to The Gazette.

CRIPPLE CREEK, April 16.—The Republicans of Teller county will hold their convention in the Victor opera house tomorrow, to select delegates to the state and congressional conventions to be held at Pueblo April 29. It was learned on good authority tonight that the Sullivan delegates will attempt to take possession of the opera house. Should they be unsuccessful in this undertaking, another convention will probably be held. This means that there will be contested delegations at the Pueblo conventions.

GOTHENBERG, Sweden, April 16.—Seventeen perished by the capsizing of the steamer Getolfa yesterday. They were mostly passengers. The captain and crew of the steamer managed to swim ashore. Several bodies are still unrecovered.

TRUE LOVELINESS.

What is more lovely than the smooth, delicately tinted skin of the healthy babe or child? The charm is retained by some through girlhood, and by a few fortunate ones well on into life. All may improve it by care and attention. Dr. T. Felix Gonraud's Oriental Cream is offered as a skin purifier and beautifier. This may be easily proved to the doubting ones by placing a little of it on a scratch, slight cut, blackhead or pimple, when the results produced will render further testimony to its virtues unnecessary. All Druggists and Department stores sell it.

FOR CITY BEAUTIFUL

MERCHANTS BOOST FOR A GREATER COLO. SPRINGS.

Many Subjects Discussed at Enthusiastic Meeting—Mayor Was Elaborate Lighting Scheme.

Enthusiasm was rampant at the regular meeting of the Merchants association held last night in the cafe of the Alamo hotel. Everything was in harmony, from the stunts performed by B. R. Ford on what is technically termed an induction coil to the addresses that followed a palatable Dutch lunch served by Davis and Mueth. There was also a punch bowl presided over by H. C. Chapman. Lights, industries, water and other things incidental to a greater and more beautiful Colorado Springs were the general topics of the speakers.

Routine business was dispatched before the lunch was served. The chief feature of this part of the evening was the decision to continue the publicity work established in Denver, looking toward the securing of visitors for this city. Quarters will be established in the capital city and two men employed to properly exploit the charms of Colorado Springs.

Mayor Boosts for Lights.

Following the lunch the speakers were heard. President O. E. Hemenway first introduced Mayor D. N. Heizer, who, in a general boosting address, emphasized the need of a better lighted business district during the summer months. He recommended the adoption of a plan to brilliantly illuminate the streets from the south end of South park to the north end of North park, and from the Antlers hotel to Nevada avenue. Ornamental poles 14 feet high, adorned with powerful arc lights, to take the place of the present trolley and electric wire poles, were suggested for this scheme.

While the Mayor did not make comparisons, the plan he outlined is similar to that adopted by the city of Los Angeles, Cal., where the down-town streets are illuminated so brilliantly that a "dress parade" of the visitors is a nightly feature of life in that resort.

Cornforth Talks.

Senator Arthur Cornforth got down to earth in his remarks, taking the general subject of new industries that are and should be encouraged and fostered by the association. He advocated the adoption of a resolution, suggested by a committee from the Federated Trades council, to the effect that so far as possible, Colorado Springs labor be employed in the construction of the new federal building.

Fred S. Tucker, former president of the association, talked along general lines of the work that has been done and that yet to be done by the organization of merchants. He urged that they take up all propositions of interest to the general welfare and consider carefully all public matters.

The City Beautiful.

Alderman Charles T. Fertig, president of the City Council, talked about water, but did not throw any low temperature liquid on anything that had come up. He referred to the general business conditions, eliciting applause when he said that Colorado Springs was in better shape from a business standpoint than any other city in the country of its size and most of them twice its size. "Within 10 years we will be first in the ranks of cities beautiful," he said, and his hearers agreed with him.

Mr. Fertig also took occasion to boost the summer band concerts that have for years been a feature of tourist life in the city. He declared that they comprised one of the most attractive amusements for tourists and should be continued for all time. He said he was a firm believer in the plan of having plenty of music in the city during the summer season and that he was in favor of increasing the number of concerts, rather than trying to economize by cutting them down.

Electrical Experiments.

The entertainment feature of the evening was the electrical experiments given by B. R. Ford of this city.

Mr. Ford is the inventor and maker of his own apparatus whereby he is able to "steep up" the ordinary residence voltage of 104 volts to the astonishing power of more than 2,000,000 volts. To do this he has an induction coil containing more than 75 miles of wire. With this coil he is able to produce an electric spark 20 inches in length. This coil is by far the largest in this region.

A current of 2,000 volts of electricity will cause instant death, it was explained, but at 2,000,000 volts it is not deadly. Mr. Ford handled the 2,000,000 voltage with impunity and finally prevailed upon Mayor Heizer, Mr. Fertig and other men present to also "take hold" of this great voltage. A 2,000,000 voltage produces a slight tingling sensation and absolutely no contraction of the muscles. This voltage was made to pass through books, strike sheets of metal with the apparent force of lightning, pass through three-inch oak planks, light broken filament incandescent lamps held at a distance of nearly two feet, and other feats that would ordinarily be regarded as miraculous—and all without danger to Ford himself, who, for minutes at a time, permitted the current to run through his body.

Mr. Ford's whole body was so charged that those that touched even his clothing received a shock, and the greatest merriment was caused as he circled around among the members.

While this is only in an experimental degree at present, electrical experts believe that similar to the wireless message means of transportation, the time will come when, by the method that Mr. Ford has invented and is working, large power plants and residences will be lighted from a central station miles away without any transmission of feed wires. A large number of electrical men were present and they declare that nowhere outside of Nicola Tesla's laboratory in New York, have such exhibitions been seen. Ford himself believes that he will soon be able to transport any electrical energy desired for power purposes without the use of wires of any sort.

HAS HUSBAND ARRESTED

P. J. Tobin Charged With Assaulting His Wife.

Constable O. E. Kimsey of Colorado City, arrested P. J. Tobin yesterday afternoon on a warrant sworn out by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Tobin, on the charge of assault and battery. Mrs. Tobin claims that her husband beat her unmercifully yesterday morning on a slight provocation. Tobin says that his wife's mother is the cause of the whole trouble. According to his story, his mother-in-law came to visit them at their home, 1119 Lincoln avenue, a few days ago and started trouble between his wife and himself. She kept it up until he was so aroused that he threatened his wife.

Tobin is employed as a laborer at the Standard mill.

The case will be tried before Justice J. D. Faulkner this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HOW TO KILL DANDELIONS.

A CORRESPONDENT whose puzzled state of mind is indicated by the signature of his letter—a row of interrogation marks—asks in today's Open Parliament for an effective dandelion exterminator.

A short time ago we published a letter from Mr. W. W. Williamson in which he recommended gasoline or salt, preferably the former, for this purpose. Cut the top of the dandelion plant just above the root and squirt a little gasoline on the exposed part, using a small sewing-machine oil can to avoid getting the liquid on the grass. If salt is used it should be put on the root after the top has been cut off.

Many people who have used gasoline for this purpose recommend it as the only sure remedy. It certainly is worth trying, for the dandelion nuisance is one that demands serious consideration.

THE VOTE ON THE NAVAL BILL.

CONGRESSMAN WILLETT of New York got pretty close to the real reason for the refusal of Congress to authorize four battleships instead of two, when he ascribed it, in effect, to the ill-feeling of members against the President. Mr. Roosevelt was known to be intensely anxious that the appropriation be voted in its entirety as recommended by the Navy Department. Congressman Longworth declared in a speech that "the President was more interested in the increase than in any other question before Congress." But the fact is that a majority of the members, Republicans as well as Democrats, are in a state of insurrection against the White House. They do not like the way the President lectures them in his frequent special messages, and many of them are antagonistic for personal reasons. Congress has been dawdling along for nearly five months, wasting time in endless debate but accomplishing nothing and giving no indication of a desire to accomplish anything, until it has become apparent that when the time for adjournment comes it will have done nothing except pass the regular appropriation bills and a lame excuse for a financial bill. Two or three weeks ago the President called the members to task in a message strongly urging the importance of enacting needed legislation, which he specifically defined. But Congress is not in the mood to receive this advice. It feels "sore," and recommendations from the White House are hardly likely to be considered solely on their merits.

It was not a question of whether or not four new battleships are needed to maintain the requisite naval strength; almost everybody except the extremists who complain against all naval expenditure admits that the ships should be provided, but this consideration carried less weight than the desire to "turn down" the President and to prune appropriations for campaign effect.

A LESSON OF THE PAST.

Just befort the outbreak of the war with Spain a naval officer who had been ordered abroad with authority to buy warships wherever he could get them, remarked that if Congress had spent $15,000,000 a few years before for the five battleships which at that time could have been built with that amount, a war with Spain would be impossible, because our Navy would be so strong that the Spanish government would not dare risk an encounter. Yet in the panic which seized it when war became inevitable Congress voted $50,000,000 "for the national defense," and this officer was authorized to spend any part of it to buy the ships which Congress had neglected to buy while there was yet time. Of course he did not succeed in buying any that were worth while, for no nation has warships for sale. He picked up two or three small cruisers which had just been completed in England for one of the South American republics, and the owners compelled him to pay exorbitant prices. These ships are still in our Navy as monuments to Congressional neglect and inefficiency. For the money they cost we could have had an equal number of powerful warships.

Refusing necessary appropriations merely to "get even" with the President for fancied wrongs and to create a pretense of economy for campaign purposes may be good politics but it is mighty poor statesmanship. Doubtless a good many Congressmen are feeling good just now over the way they showed Mr. Roosevelt a thing or two, but they would feel differently a few years hence if a sudden war should find the country as unprepared as it was in 1898. We may not always be so fortunate as to have an opponent as weak and decrepit as poor old Spain.

THE TUBERCULOSIS CONGRESS.

IN a few months there will be held in Washington the International Congress on Tuberculosis, a gathering of very great importance to the medical profession. It will be attended by delegates from all over the world, and a notable feature will be extensive exhibits showing the methods and character of the work now being done to combat tuberculosis. These exhibits will require so much floor space that only two buildings in Washington are large enough to house them—the Capitol and the Congressional Office Building. It is desired to secure the latter building, which will be unoccupied at the time, as the meeting is to be held during the vacation of Congress.

This is the first session of the International Congress on Tuberculosis ever held in the United States. At former meetings, held in London, Paris, Vienna, and Moscow the delegates were entertained in the largest and finest buildings in those cities, and it is regarded as essential to the success of the coming meeting that Congress grant the desired privilege. This should be, and doubtless will be done, as it is hardly likely that valid objection could be made to such action.

A Russian army officer who had been convicted of stealing $250,000 which had been collected to relieve the distress among famine victims has been pardoned by the Czar and restored to his rank. Perhaps the Lord's anointed will now restore to life the miserable wretches who starved as a result of the theft.

Congressman DeArmond told the Yale students the other day that he had a mighty poor opinion of the Federal Supreme Court and didn't think it should be held in reverence. It is barely possible, though, that the prestige of the Supreme Court will survive this blow.

Mayor McClellan is doubtless satisfied to let Mr. Hearst have an occasional recount in his majority contest so long as it doesn't involve the transfer of the job. And thus far there is no indication that it will ever reach that stage.

San Diego got on the map yesterday with both feet, and it purposes to stay there until the battleship fleet leaves anyway. After that it will drop into the has-been class with Punta Arenas and Magdalena Bay.

The governor of Galicia has been killed by a man named Siczynski. The dispatch didn't say whether the murderer was an anarchist, but he ought to be, with that name.

FISH.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

How large a part fish have in the dietary of the people of the United Kingdom will be inferred from the fact that in 1906 20,541,394 hundredweights were taken on its coasts and consumed by the people. Americans do not begin to make the same use of their fisheries as the British, who have always found them among the most profitable of their assets. The United States shows up very well in a comparison of figures, but what we do measured against what we might do suggests that we are not utilizing all our opportunities.

WILLIAM THE SUDDEN.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

The Hill affair suggests that the kaiser occasionally relapses into his old habit of speaking first and thinking afterward. It is not proable that he had any serious objection to the newly appointed ambassador, but some impulse or other escaped him which he tried to make good. Of course he could have done so, for a government is not obliged to receive an objectionable person, but, as in some other cases, the kaiser took a second thought and gracefully retreated from his position. It is to be hoped that the recession is complete, for the country would be ill served by an ambassador obnoxious to the Kaiser.

RESPONSIBILITY.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Some one has said truly that responsibility walks hand in hand with capacity and power. Little is expected of the incapable. The very mention of duty, task, responsibility weighs like a burden upon the minds of weak men and women. Every one must have met men of good parts who will sedulously dodge anything like a responsibility. They shun everything like responsibility though high rewards may be offered. The mere thought of being held to strict accountability dismays them, and no remuneration and no honor are great enough to tempt them to leave the pleasant ways of peace to undertake a course which involves contention or strife, or even serious prolonged attention.

DURHAM W. STEVENS.

From the New York Sun.

The type has been common enough, perhaps, in the case of Englishmen in the native states of India, but Durham White Stevens was one of a few Americans of intellect and energy whose careers have been devoted almost wholly to the service of sovereigns or nations not their own. He went directly from college to a desk in the United States legation at Tokio, and his ten years there were but a preparation for the quarter of a century he has spent as political and diplomatic adviser and agent of Japan—at Tokio, at Seoul and even in the city of his birth, Washington. He has given to the government that employed him great abilities and efficient loyalty, and now he has given Japan his life.

BRYAN BY "ACCLIMATION."

From Harper's Weekly.

We learn from a reproachful correspondent, who writes from Fallon, Nevada, that "Mr. William J. Bryan will be nominated, very likely by acclimation, at Denver." We hope he will be nominated that way, if at all, but if the delegates stay till they get acclimated, they will have time to deliberate, and if they once begin to deliberate, Brother Bill will be dropped over the side. Denver is an altitudinous place; the atmosphere is rarefied, and tends to increase heart action, make the head light, and intensify the efficiency of stimulants. Brother Bill's best lay will be to swoop down on the delegates while they are still bewildered by the atmosphere and their ears are still singing. That is the time when he can best stampede them by a transcendent feat of oratory. My! what fun he will have with them! But if he waits till acclimation has brought them back to normal, his burst may not take effect.

FIVE MONTHS AFTER.

From the New York World.

The reopening of the Knickerbocker Trust company occurs five months after its suspension on October 22. Its period of idleness may roughly be taken as the measure of the duration of the panic its closing precipitated.

Confidence has been generally restored. The bank surplus has for some months been above normal. The decrease in railroad earnings has been checked, the volume of actual trade has increased, mills and factories have resumed production to a fair percentage of their capacity, and security values have regained most of their loss. The shock has been distributed and more uniformly apportioned. Opportunities for pessimism are not lacking in the number of railway and factory employes out of work. But labor is already beginning to benefit by the renewal of activity.

The outlook is altogether encouraging. That it should be so a brief five months after the infliction of the worst blow American industry has suffered in many years bears testimony to the nation's wonderful resources and recuperative powers.

HORRIBLE!

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Although ignorant, presumably, of the hundred and one things that good General Palmer has done for our lovely little city, yet, knowing what I do, it seems that to oppose his wish, in the matter of parking Cascade avenue, is not only unwise and unreasonable, but extremely disgusting.

And, to go to law over the question, seems pretty poor taste; indeed, it appears shameful.

Merely the opinion of an observer.

DANDELIONS.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

What is to be done with the dandelion? Each year it gets more and more numerous. Until now I have tried to keep them from going to seed on my lot, but my neighbors do not, and this spring they are thicker than ever. So what is the use? The wind will carry the seed onto a lot, enough to raise a good crop, even if the owner carefully digs out every plant that dares show its head. What, then, is to become of the grass? I can find vigorous plants that have killed every blade of grass in a circle four or five inches in diameter, even beyond the utmost reach of the leaves of the plant. It is nothing uncommon to see lawns that they have entirely taken and the owner digs up and reseeds. But how long will it take for the grass and clover to be again crowded out with the increasing abundance of the pest? What, then, is to be done, ye wise ones?

THE MAN AND HIS JOB

By Herbert J. Hapgood

I know a young man who seems to have a natural capacity for knowing how to go about things. He graduated from a college of pharmacy only last June and was put in charge of the laboratory of a perfumery house in New York at a salary of twenty dollars a week. Before he was on the job a month he discovered a valuable formula and asked for an increase in salary of five dollars a week. No sooner was this granted than he distinguished himself again and asked to have his salary raised to thirty dollars a week.

"Look here," said the boss. "Every time you do something clever, you pat yourself on the back and strike for a raise. Now, I'll give you five dollars more than you ask, if you will sign a contract for two years."

My friend signed the contract, but the assurance of two years' employment at a high salary didn't lessen his willingness to make good. As I said he possesses a peculiar characteristic of knowing how to go about things, and last week something happened that called into play every latent power in his makeup.

At 3 o'clock in the morning a telephone message told him that their building was afire.

Everything was wrecked except the safe containing the books and formulas. The manager and office force completely lost their nerve and found solace by plunging into a state of intoxication which lasted unbroken for several days. The young chemist, however, knew how to go about things. He waited at the scene of the fire and secured the addresses of all the employes. Then he borrowed somebody's office, sent a form letter to all their customers, and attended to infinite detail which previously he knew nothing whatsoever about. After half a day's search he succeeded in finding a suitable loft and placed orders for material and fixtures, all of which was done with such promptitude that within three days they were doing business as usual.

It is in a time like that when all the ability which lies dormant within a man comes out and he can show his employers that he knows how to go about things.

Today's Horoscope

"The stars incline, but do not compel."
Friday, April 17, 1908.

No compass course the planets mark,
The end of venture lieth dark.

Another uncertain day, with auguries for neither good or ill except in a few things, marks this day, the 108th of the year and the 16th of this Moon.

Household affairs should prosper, whether they be matters of daily routine or new attempts or changes. Millinery work and dressmaking are under the same kindly aspect. A good day for color. It should be satisfactory to match materials and tints in this period.

Fishermen will have a good 12-hour period beginning with the dawn of this day.

All dealings with compounds, such as are involved in brewing, distilling, putting up prescriptions and painting, promises well.

A day when office workers will find close attention profitable.

The woman with this birthdate will find it well during the twelvemonth to look sharply after her own interests. She will be tempted to take an important matter for granted.

Speculation or imprudent loans will be disastrous to the man whose birthdate this is. He will do well to shut his ears to proposals however promising that involve anything of that nature.

Long journeys and many changes await the girl born today. She will be happy and make others so.

The boy born this day will be singularly shrewd and clever, but too free with his money.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

From the Hugo (Colo.) Range Ledger.

A large number of John Lieber's friends got together last Friday night and gave a surprise party on him at his ranch and he was surely surprised. The crowd had not gathered long before the door was filled with merry dancers. They danced all night till broad daylight and went to the sale in the morning. Music was furnished by Messrs. Leiber and Green and Mrs. C. H. Lee. Everyone took their turn in calling. At 12 o'clock a bounteous supper was served, consisting of cake, sandwiches, pickles and coffee. Everyone there reports having had the best time they have had for many years and hope it will not be long until they can have another big time at Mr. Leiber's ranch.

New Treatment of an Old Disease

How the Tuberculosis Committee of the New York Charity Organization Society Furnished 4,350 Miles of Reading Matter to the Strap Hangers of the Metropolis Teaching a City How to Avoid Consumption.

By ORLANDO F. LEWIS.

Copyright, 1908, Charities and The Commons, New York.

ONE million street car transfers, telling on the back how to avoid tuberculosis and how to prevent it, and how to cure it, have been given out in New York city every Sunday during the last twelve months. Stretch these transfers lengthwise and join them together, and you have over 87 miles of reading matter, all about consumption and its cure. Multiply that one million by fifty. Fifty million transfers given out in the past year, telling how to treat consumption, 4,350 miles of transfers, far more than would stretch across the United States from New York to San Francisco.

This unique and wholesome distribution of such important information staggers even the "constant reader" of transfers. Undoubtedly millions of times, through the courtesy of the Siegel-Cooper company department store, that uses the backs of transfers on weekdays, the short, pithy, "driving-in-the-lesson" sentences have been read and digested.

The Don't Cards.

Such bodies as the Charity Organization Society's Tuberculosis committee are not afraid to adopt striking and novel ways on emphasizing facts that the public ought to learn. In a way, this move is based on the belief that these facts must be assimilated, whether or no. Take the so-called "Don't Cards" as an example. The phrase, "Don't give consumption to others: don't let others give consumption to you," has become to many ears as haunting as Mark Twain's "A Pink Trip Slip for a Six-Cent Fare."

All through the congested portions of New York at dispensaries, at stereopticon lectures, at clinics, these "don't" cards have been given out to the number of 600,000. The cards are printed in various languages. What is the use of giving English directions about tuberculosis to a foreigner who does not even know the name of his disease in his own language? And so the cards are very simply printed in various languages, monosyllabic, when possible, and through their circulation probably more people have been taught to suspect their own cough or the hectic flush on their relatives' cheek, than by any other one method.

Visualization of Danger.

One can talk learnedly to wage earners, housewives, and the dwellers of the tenements, about the thousands of bacilli in the drop of water, and yet the foreigner in the process of Americanization will calmly not absorb it. But throw upon the screen the bacillus magnified a thousand times, and tell him that it will get him if he does not watch out, and he will understand after that and remember. This visualization of the dangers of tuberculosis has been most strikingly evident in the traveling tuberculosis exhibition, which has been visited by over 200,000 persons in New York City. It is, in a way lesson No. 3, and follows up the transfer and the lecture. The denizen of the Ghetto or the dweller on San Juan hill may not think a dark and dirty room is disease-laden. He has to be appealed to in a different way. When, however, the same room, now cleaned up and sanitary, full of fresh air and light, is placed next to the dark room, in the most approved "before and after" style, the clean room becomes enticing, particularly when it is seen at how little expense the increased comforts can be bought. The foreigner may never have felt that he had a pair of lungs, even in our dust laden atmosphere. But when he sees a row of breathing machines, lined up in glass jars of alcohol, he understands what the black dust and the holes in the lungs mean. He begins to feel uneasy now, which is the first step in the prevention of the disease. He may never have thought what it means to spit in the street until he learned how the dust can carry the germ a long distance through the air and into the body. Thus, in this graphic way, thousands are learning the elementary lessons against the disease.

An All-Day Ferry Trip.

Last summer the New York Charity Organization society committee undertook an experiment of giving tuberculosis patients an all-day ferry trip, while the boat remained tied up in the dock. In other words, the department of docks and ferries gave to the charity organization society the use of the old Staten Island ferryboat Southfield, that was out of commission and tied up to a dock at West 16th street. The old boat looked decrepit enough to be a subject for "building up," or "after care," but the society fixed it up with steamer chairs, hammocks, luncheons, "between luncheons," fishing poles checker boards, nurses, and any other necessities, and during the summer of 1907, there was a total attendance on the boat of 242 persons.

The results of this new kind of day camp were very gratifying, judged by those who continued to take advantage of the chance to take good care, good food and a good rest. But there were not as many patients as there probably will be this next summer. It was too far for some; it could not care for patients over night. Many came several days, and they were seized again by the well known desire to look for a job, not realizing that tuberculosis, a disease generally of slow development, is not going to cure it if in a few days, even if the patient does feel a good deal better.

Tuberculosis Clinics.

Other features of this committee's work are the establishment of ten special tuberculosis clinics, and the organization of a system of district dispensaries which are boons to the afflicted, and also prevent the overlapping and the duplication of effort. Recently 200 members of the printing trade voluntarily submitted to physical examinations for the purpose of determining the extent to which tuberculosis exists among certain workers. The results have not yet been made public. For the commission on hospitals, appointed by Mayor McClellan, an extended report was prepared concerning the tuberculous sick of New York, and the adequacy or inadequacy of present hospital provisions. The committee made a number of important recommendations to the commission.

It is popular at present to quote from the words of the governor of New York. Many of his sayings regarding modern problems of charity are aphorisms of much value. Governor Hughes recently said:

"If we had through the misfortune of war, or the sudden rise of pestilence, or through some awful calamity, the destruction of life that annually takes place on account of the spread of this disease (tuberculosis), we should be appalled, and mass meetings would be held in every community and demand would be made that the most urgent measures should be adopted. It is only because we are accustomed to this waste of life and are prone to think that it is one of the dispensations of Providence that we go on about our business, little thinking of the preventive measures that are possible."

A NATURE STORY.

From the Hillsboro (Ill.) News.

Every winter A. M. Howell of this city receives a barrel of live oysters from his cousin, Frank Shull of Philadelphia. They are plucked fresh from their ocean nests and smell of the salt sea waves. They whisper of the dark, unfathomed caves of the briny deep, but make no audible complaint. They do not try to fly out of the barrel or run away from their fate. They are the most submissive, unresisting beasts extant. These oysters will live under proper conditions for several days, and perhaps weeks. Mr. Howell spreads them on his cellar floor, puts a gunny sack over them saturated with salt water and feeds them meal the same as he does chickens, and they can be heard smacking their chops and licking their hard, bony lips, with their mellowous tongues after each feed.

Bad Animals

The two-legged animal, man, can beat any other animal in the world, no matter how many legs it has. Arthur E. McFarlane, in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST, tells a good deal about the business and how it is done.

He tells how an Ohioan, named Rarey, went to England and broke the wickedest horse that ever lived. He tells how Peter Conklin, of Barnum & Bailey's, fought a lion for a piece of beef. He tells how Mrs. Gallagher spanked a runaway lion with a broom. And he tells but we're not going to tell you everything, because we want you to buy this week's SATURDAY EVENING POST for yourself. It costs 5 cents at the newsstands, or $1.50 the year by mail.

ARRESTED, SUED FOR DIVORCE

H. J. Clark, Santa Fe Switchman, Must Answer Charge of Beating His Wife.

Arrested and sued for divorce in the same day is the thorny path which H. J. Clark, a Santa Fe switchman, had to travel yesterday, but according to the complaints made by his wife, Ruth Clark, he is only reaping the thistles that he sowed. An warrant for his arrest sworn to before Justice W. N. Ruby, Mrs. Clark alleges that her husband assaulted her with many blows and drove her from the house. The man was arrested and will be given a hearing this morning.

In her complaint asking a divorce filed in the district court, the woman claims that ever since her honeymoon, in October, 1905, she has been subjected to the most foul abuse from her husband in the way of bad language, which has frequently been followed up by blows and threats on her life. She also claims that Clark drinks to excess, and when intoxicated, has repeatedly threatened to take her life and abused her in such a brutal manner that her health has been injured.

The Clarks were married in Los Angeles, Cal., and have lived in this city about 18 months.

WILL CELEBRATE ARBOR DAY

Appropriate Exercises to Be Held At All of the Public Schools This Morning.

Arbor day will be celebrated today in all the public schools of this city by the planting of trees, vines and shrubs on the school grounds. The pupils will meet at the schools at the regular hour, and after short exercises appropriate to the day, will adjourn to the school yards to complete the observance of the day. School will then be dismissed for the day.

At the High School Mrs. W. K. Jewett will address the students on "Birds, Flowers and Plants." After her talk the entire student body will witness the planting of the senior class vine. This is the annual feature of Arbor day at the High School. After the vine is planted, the senior class president, Jay Randolph, will hand over the spade with which the vine is planted, to the junior class president, to be kept until next year.

CHURCH TO BE ENLARGED

Architect Barber Drawing Plans for $30,000 Addition.

Architect T. P. Barber is now drawing the plans for the proposed addition to the First Presbyterian church of this city to cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. It is expected that construction work will be started in the near future, probably sometime during the summer.

The addition will contain 22 class rooms and a large assembly room. The auditorium of the church proper is also to be enlarged. The plans will be submitted to the congregation within a short time.

The members of the building committee are W. K. Argo, E. C. Sparer, H. H. Seldomridge, D. Wilson Moore and Thomas H. Craig.

METHODS USED HERE BEST

Health Officer and Chemist Testing Methods of Fumigation.

To ascertain the best and most effective methods known to science in the fumigation of infected houses, City Chemist Lester Bale and Dr. P. O. Hanford, city health officer, are engaged in making a series of tests in which the various methods used in health departments all over the country are being tested. While the tests are not complete, Dr. Hanford stated yesterday that the results so far show that the methods in vogue in the east and middle west are of very little efficacy here, owing to the rarefied air and dry climate.

"I do not think that the tests will show anything more efficient for this city than the methods employed by this department in the last five years," said Dr. Hanford.

Who's your doctor?

No matter if he be an Allopath, Osteopath or Homeopath his prescriptions should be entrusted to an experienced graduate of pharmacy and conscientious chemist. These competent men are scarce in this city, and the oldest chemist is now with us; J. K. Miller, Ph. G., needs no introduction to old residents, and physicians alive to a scientific compounding of their prescriptions are assured of his personal attention.

HOLDS MURDER THEORY

MATTHEWS BACK AFTER INVESTIGATING SON'S DEATH.

Says Everything Points to Foul Play. Will Go to Salt Lake Again.

Murdered by thugs and thrown on the railroad tracks where the body was found, is the conclusion arrived at by E. P. Matthews concerning the manner in which his son, Donald E. Matthews, came to his death in Salt Lake City about a month ago. Mr. Matthews returned yesterday from that city after making a thorough investigation of the case in which he was aided by the chief of police of Salt Lake. No trace could be found of the boy's jewelry or money, to the amount of $82, and a suit of clothes and many other articles of value were not recovered. A revolver and a pair of shoes were found on the track near the place of the supposed accident the morning afterward and the theory of the police is that the young man was lured to the spot by thugs and shot, the marks of the bullet wound being obliterated by the cuts and bruises inflicted by the train.

Strong Evidence.

The fact that young Matthews had absolutely no need to "beat" his way was established by the conductor with whom he traveled on his way from Grand Junction to Salt Lake and who told Mr. Matthews that the boy's railroad credentials were sufficient to carry him anywhere. Proof that the boy was not in need of money was obtained from the clerk of the Brotherhood of Railway clerks, who talked with Matthews the day before the tragedy and was told by him that he had sufficient money and wanted nothing but a job. The clerk told him that if he should run short of funds to let him know and young Matthews promised to see him again in the event that he made up his mind to leave the city. That was the last seen of him by the clerk. At the rooming house where the boy stopped little satisfaction could be obtained from the landlady, and Mr. Matthews is of the opinion that she knew more about the matter than she cared to tell.

Mr. Matthews Talks.

"The state of affairs in Salt Lake," said Mr. Matthews, "is very bad and a resident of such a clean city as Colorado Springs could have no idea of the criminal conditions there. The police chief told me that throughout the winter he had been taking care of not less than 100 men every night in the station. The city is full of idle men, and holdups and robberies are very common. There is no doubt in my mind that the boy was lured out and murdered."

The fact that Matthews had at least $82 with him when he left this city is shown by statements received from the cashiers of the Colorado Title and Trust company and the First National bank, who cashed checks aggregating that amount just before the young man left. Owing to the difficulty of getting any clue to the tragedy at this late date, Mr. Matthews has little hope of ever being able to clear up the mystery, but will make another trip to Salt Lake in the near future to follow up the case more closely.

PRICE CONSIDERED TOO LOW

Offer on Shaefer Ranch Discussed by Water Committee.

Negotiations for the sale of the Shaefer ranch by the city of Colorado Springs to the Beaver Land and Irrigation company, to be used as a site for a reservoir, were considered at a meeting of the water committee yesterday afternoon, which was attended also by Mayor Heizer and City Attorney Price. The ranch includes 80 acres of land, situated on Beaver creek, about 13 miles from Florence, and was bought some years ago by the city on account of its valuable water rights. The proposed deal carries with it only the land, as the water is being diverted for the city's use through the Strickler tunnel. An offer has been made to the city by the officials of the company, but the figures have not been made public. At the meeting yesterday the matter was discussed, but no definite action was taken, as the price offered is considered too low. Another meeting will be held at which it is expected some definite recommendation to the City Council will be prepared.

TRUMBULL AND PARTY HERE

Will Go to Cripple Creek Today on Pleasure Trip.

Frank Trumbull, president of the Colorado & Southern road, and a party of railroad men and others reached the city shortly after 11 o'clock last night and will go to Cripple Creek this morning, thence to Canon City, through the Royal Gorge and back to Denver. The party is traveling in a special train. General Manager Jesse Waters of the Cripple Creek Short Line will accompany the party to the gold camp.

According to Mr. Trumbull, there is no particular business significance in the trip, it being merely a jaunt through Colorado with a party of friends.

Accompanying Mr. Trumbull are Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, one of the earliest railroad builders in the west, Robert Fleming, a London investor; Frederick William Scott, a banker of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Fleming, Miss Fleming, Mrs. Lewis, Miss L. Montgomery, Mrs. L. D. Brand and others.

ALYN WILLIAMS COMING

England's Foremost Miniature Painter to Visit Here.

England's foremost miniature painter, Alyn Williams, will be among the distinguished visitors to the Pikes Peak region this summer. Mrs. Williams is already here as the guest of her brother, [illegible] Jefferson avenue, Colorado City. She expects her husband here within the next two weeks. He is now in New York where he is engaged in making miniatures of the eyes of the "four hundred."

Mr. Williams makes a specialty of reproducing eyes. His pronounced success in Europe brought his services into demand in this country and members of the smart set of the metropolis are besieging him for miniatures of their eyes. He is the first famous painter to make a specialty of eyes and his work has become a fad.

Among those in this country who have "sat" for him are Mrs. George Gould and Miss Marjorie Gould.

The notables abroad that Mr. Williams has painted include King Edward of England. In the recent art catalogue prepared for J. Pierpont Morgan, Mr. Williams is accorded the first place among the miniature painters of the world.

TWO BARGAIN DAYS LEFT

The biggest values ever offered on high-class clothing right at the beginning of the season are in effect for today and Saturday at Robbins', on the corner. Next week the contractors begin work, and it is the policy of this firm to give the customers the benefit of the loss and move the goods at cost prices, rather than allow the stock to be damaged by dust and dirt. To those who appreciate a big saving on seasonable merchandise this great sale presents an opportunity to buy the highest grade clothing such as Hart, Schaffner & Marx, Kuppenheimer, etc., at 20 per cent off the regular prices. Attend this sale today and pick out your spring outfit. It will be your last chance to make such big savings on goods that you really need.

TO INITIATE LARGE CLASS

Grand Officers of Yeomen Here for Celebration Tonight.

Columbine homestead No. 111, R. A. Y., will initiate a class of 75 candidates at a meeting to be held this evening in the Majestic hall. In addition to the initiation ceremonies, a social session will be held.

The Yeomen will have as their guests William Koch, grand foreman, and W. E. Davy, chief correspondent both of Des Moines, where the head offices of the order are located. Every Yeoman in the district is invited to be present. Invitations for the dancing which will follow the supper have been sent to friends of the order.

Messrs. Koch and Davy arrived in this city yesterday and are registered at the Alamo hotel. They will visit all the homesteads in the state before returning east.

What the Press Agents Say

"DREAM CITY" AT THE OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT

That the real amusement treats of the theatrical season is announced for the Opera House this evening, when we are to have the pleasure of a visit of the latest Weber production, "Dream City."

"Dream City" ran all the entire season last year at Joe Weber's theater, New York, and was conceded to be one of the most successful of all the Weber productions. In this catchy and mirthful satire, Edgar Smith and Victor Herbert have practically speaking, set melodrama to music and lifted musical drama from its own original sphere into the atmosphere of opera with spectacular ornamentations and such picturesque accessories as to make it a pot-pourri of the most fascinating features of legitimate comedy, high-class vaudeville, real burlesque, satirical extravaganza, artistically conceived spectacle and simon-pure comic opera.

Messrs. Smith and Herbert have conceived an exceptional story in "Dream City," and worked it out in a delightful manner all the way through, beginning as an idylic rustic romance, it swerves at a tangent from the direct road of comic romanticism, enters the field of the fantastical and purely imaginative, opens the door for the welcoming of specialties, shoulders boldly up to the sensational, and again, awakening from its poetic dream, settles down as a rural melodrama in which a happy denouement, hand in hand with an intelligent, probable and possible solution, hails the final curtain, lowered to the applause that speaks of delights enjoyed, expectations realized, all senses satisfied and thorough approval secured.

The principal features of "Dream City" this year are, outside the magnificent production, which includes all the original scenery, costumes and stage effects used in the New York production, a bevy of Weber chorus beauties and that inimitable comedian, Little Chip, and that clever and magnetic comedienne, Miss Mary Marlo.

AN ENGLISH PROGRAM AT FAIRYLAND

Manager Braden has been showing to packed houses this week, and as all pictures shown here before have been French films, he has decided to give something entirely new today and tomorrow. It will be strictly an English program, and these pictures have never been presented to Colorado Springs people before. They are very beautiful and should prove a big hit. The program is as follows:

"An Englishman's Promise," "What a Razor Can Do," "London's Regattas and Exhibitions," and the illustrated song, "Smile on Me."

New folding opera chairs have been installed at Fairyland, and add greatly to the beauty of the house and to the comfort of its patrons. If you have never visited Fairyland you have missed a good treat, and if you have enjoyed some of the past shows, you will want to go again. A complete change of program three times a week, and never a disappointing program, is what is drawing the crowds to this popular amusement place.

GERTIE DUNLAP COMPANY

Popular plays at popular prices, by a popular company. The Gertie Dunlap company will be the attraction at the Opera House next week, commencing Monday evening. Night Riders' Crimes

Kentucky and Tennessee Now Terrorized by Them.—Their Spectacular Raiding. Hardly a Week Goes By Without Its Story of Outrage and Destruction of Property.—United States Government May Soon Take a Hand in the Work of Suppressing the Marauders.

Is Uncle Sam going to take a hand in the suppression of the night riders, who for the last few years have terrorized the western counties of Kentucky and Tennessee? From the Washington Post.

It certainly looks that way.

So long as the night riders confined themselves to beating up their neighbors, and merely destroyed one another's crops and burned one another's barns and warehouses, Uncle Sam did not regard it as a case for avuncular interference. But when they destroyed property owned on the other side of the mill pond, and international complications threaten, for his own credit he may have to intervene.

In the night riders' spectacular raid on Hopkinsville last week, three large "trust" warehouses were burned. The loss is impossible to be fixed exactly, but [illegible] of tobacco burned had been bought for the Italian market, and as the manufacture of tobacco in Italy (as in Spain and Austria) is a government monopoly, the king of Italy lost that $50,000. Naturally, there was an official protest from the Italian government. A court note from the secretary of state called Governor Wilson's attention to Italy's complaint and requested an immediate investigation and the punishment of the guilty parties. Investigation developed nothing, and nobody has been punished.

[illegible] be without the "black patch" district of Kentucky and Tennessee. Barns burned, growing crops destroyed, warehouses set on fire, towns raided, men and women beaten—that is their record for the last two or three years. In the localities devastated, people do not tell who these night riders are, outside of those afflicted regions people merely know what they are.

Bang! Bang-bang-bang! Bang! Bang! Bang!

That, of course, is not just the combination, but it's something like that—a volley of pistol shots from yonder hill top, a curious arrangement of rifle shots, pauses, irregular intervals, disturbing the quiet of the evening a little before sundown. The same grouping of shots and pauses from a neighboring hill top, its apparent echo from quite a different direction, and so on.

The stranger in western Kentucky wonders, the native, perhaps, knows and feels—that by pistol exercises [illegible] be a town raided and thousands of dollars going up in smoke—perhaps even the long-expected clash with the militia. Or merely an outlying farm visited, its crops destroyed, and the farmer and his hands—perhaps even his wife—taken out and beaten? Something likely to be doing, anyhow, of course the native who belongs to the opposition, if he hears these shots and knows what they mean, does not find his excitement entirely unpleasant. It is colored by the deepest possible interest in the safety of his own crops.

It is the signal of the night riders, a call to meeting. After dark in the neighboring towns horsemen go riding through the streets—oh, quite casually!—one from here, one from there—no apparent connection, nothing alarming about them. But one by one, they strike out from the towns, and by divergent roads, by cross lots, and roundabout routes, they all reach a certain dark hollow in a sparsely settled region on the river bank, remote from houses, and out of sight of everybody. Here they lay their plans, arrange their signals, administer their oaths, and, arraying themselves in a curious sort of primitive regalia, ride forth to spread terror and devastation in the countryside.

These are the night riders, who in the last few years, have destroyed in the tobacco regions of Kentucky and Tennessee, upward of a million dollars worth of property. Undoubtedly they are an outgrowth of the attempt of the tobacco planters to combine against the "trust." It is sometimes said that organized labor, which considers itself as mainly existing to fight "trusts"—in theory of righteous and necessary combination for purposes of self-preservation—is the worst foe of them all.

In the same way two great organizations of farmers in the Kentucky-Tennessee border tobacco country, "The Planters' Protective association" and the "Society of Equity," originally [illegible] attempt on the part of the farmers [illegible] station living prices for their crops [illegible] have developed a condition approaching anarchy. Originally [illegible] the right, and claiming the support and sympathy of law-abiding citizens, they have descended, as organized labor has upon occasions, to deeds of violence and outrage which raise the forces of law and order against them, and necessitate their suppression, even if it involves the calling of the National guard.

The operations of the night riders are confined to the district controlled by the Planters' Protective association—the "black patch" as it is called from the dark color of the cigarette leaf produced. The Society of Equity confines itself to the handling of the light burley tobacco, and does not resort to night riding, but to ordinary boycotting commercial methods common to trusts.

Formation of Planters' Association.

It was along in the fall of 1904 that the Planters' Protective association was formed. Throughout the preceding year business had been very bad. The American Tobacco company had about completed its organization, and planters had been obliged to sell at an average of 3½ cents a pound. It was not entirely the fault of the company, but partly of the natural crop conditions of the year or two previous; but trusts had become a bugbear, and the trust cry was raised.

[illegible] trust was held at Guthrie, almost on the border line, where the Louisville and Nashville passes from Kentucky to Tennessee. Three men—the Fort brothers, Charles and Joel, and Felix Robertson were prime movers in the association then formed. Ewing is regarded as the brains of the organization; Joel Fort, who is something of a demagogue, as its voice, and Charles Fort, abler than his brother, but not at all an orator, is its president.

At that first meeting there were a thousand men. The association was immediately formed, and a charter secured under the Kentucky law for the Planters' Protective association. Within a week probably 5,000 men had enrolled under its banners. Its capital stock was nominally $200, of which $16 was paid up for $1 a share. On this [illegible] profits have already accrued [illegible] by no one but the little coterie of leaders has any claim.

In every county a separate body under a similar name was organized, not actually connected with the original association, but its membership pledged to turn over their crops to the incorporators to be handled. It is a vast industrial machine, very similar to the political machines in big cities. It includes every county in the "black patch," and has in each county a chairman, and his committee, and, below these, district chairmen, and their committees, whose business it is to keep [illegible]

The Planters' Protective association represents a pooling movement, its object to obtain better prices for their crops. For three years it has by persuasion, threats and violence attained a monopoly of the dark tobacco, and has been entirely ruthless in its determination to control absolutely the dealings between the farmers and the manufacturers.

Almost as soon as the association was formed, night riding began, in a very small way. Farmers were threatened by anonymous letters. Bundles of matches and switches were sent to persons of obnoxious "independence" who persisted in selling their tobacco wherever the market suited them. Doubtless at first the night riders were more bands of farmers who visited neighbors who would not make any agreement to sell their crops through the association. They burned a few barns belonging to the independents, destroying, aside from the tobacco stored in them, farm stock, implements and machinery. They "scraped" plant beds, killing the young plants and ruining the prospective crop. Sometimes the farmers, their hands and even their wives were taken out and beaten. But these were isolated cases, not apparently the work of any organized body of men with a definite plan of campaign. These early depredations can not properly be laid at the door of the association as an organization, though doubtless individual members thereof made up the riding parties.

Since then, however, the night riders have done some spectacular stunts. They have ridden out in force, sometimes between 200 and 300 strong, and have come to be regarded as the instruments of the association's wrath, guided and, intimidation against farmers whose adherence it had been unable to secure by persuasion or threats. It is tacitly admitted that the night riders proper, those who have property, are an organized band of between 200 and 300 men, of whom the majority live near the boundary line between Trigg and Christian counties. The rest are scattered evenly through Christian, Caldwell, Lyons and Hopkins.

Pattern After the Ku-Klux.

In organization and methods they pattern after the famed Ku-Klux Klan of the reconstruction period. They have their regular meetings, and their distinguishing badges, their ceremonial, their regalia and their blood-curdling oaths. They have undoubtedly their humble imitators in the naturally lawless elements, who emulate night riders in private affairs and trust to night rider prestige and the terror the name implies to carry them through. Many of the minor depredations are probably due to some such bands, to mere night riders in the general sense, rather than to "The Night Riders" in the specific. In other words, tactics of certain association members on a small scale, having been taken up by the association on a large scale, are now being imitated by private parties for the settling of private scores.

After about a year of scattered depredation and annoyance came the first big raid. A band of armed masked men, probably 100 strong, wearing on their right breasts, or on their sleeves, the white triangle, which has since come to be recognized as the night rider badge, descended upon Trenton, Ky., cut telegraph and telephone wires, and then rode through the town, shooting it up in western cowboy fashion, until the inhabitants decided that they had better lay low. Then they set fire to the warehouses of the independent growers, and making sure that the buildings would not be saved, rode away. Sixty thousand dollars' worth of property went up in smoke that night. Not long after Elkton was visited, and the warehouses there dynamited, and a similar descent made on Russellville.

That was in the fall and winter of 1906-8, and after that things simmered down a bit, until along about Thanksgiving time. To be sure, the night riders burned a few barns, shot up a few rebellious growers, destroyed a few crops, but there was not another big raid until a little over a year ago, when one of the most spectacular and expensive ones in the history of the organization was pulled off.

The Princeton Raid.

Early in December of 1906, 200 armed men rode into Princeton and took possession. They pursued the same general tactics, shooting up the town—until the citizens decided that discretion was the better part of valor and shut themselves up in their houses—cutting telegraph and telephone wires, and finally burning the largest tobacco stemmeries in the world, well filled with tobacco purchased for the British market. The visit is said to have cost "the trust" $100,000. Shortly after they burnt a $10,000 warehouse at Fredonia, Tenn. The town being small, only about 50 men were required for this job. And after that there was another lull.

Naturally, all the big raids on towns have been made in the fall and winter, after the crop has been harvested and stored in the warehouses of the market towns ready for sale. During the spring and summer the farmers are visited and growing crops destroyed, but there is not sufficient tobacco in any one place for the raiders to be able to make a really big killing. In the last few months, driven, perhaps, to the necessity for maintaining their authority by the dissatisfaction of the farmers, whose produce, since they were unable to sell it at the price they demanded, the association has kept stored, the night riders have been unusually active. It was on December 8, last, that they made their descent upon Hopkinsville, wherein, as already set forth, 50,000 pounds of tobacco belonging to the Italian crown was consumed.

Hopkinsville is a busy, prosperous little town of about 12,000 population, one of the principal market towns of the district. It contained several big warehouses and was regarded as the stronghold of the "trust" and the "Regie" buyers, as they are called who buy for the foreign market. The attack had been expected for some time.

Bided Their Time.

Night after night the riders had gathered, but, learning that they were expected—evidently [illegible] and insiders warned that the militia were to give them a warm welcome—they had ridden away. Finally, for some reason, vigilance was relaxed, and immediately they descended on the town. At three in the morning they broke into the telephone exchange and threatened the two operators, who were girls, with instant death if help came. One group took possession of the police station, another of the railway station, killing a policeman on a passing train. Others shot up the town, including the office of the mayor, he being an outsider and fearless foe of the raiders. Others, while the confusion was at its height, made their way to the big independent warehouses and set them on fire. They guarded the city until they were sure that the fire could not be extinguished, and then—vanished.

Oh, yes—there was a pursuit. Hopkinsville has a militia company, and Major Bassett got it together as soon as he could and followed. There was a pitched battle on a dark country road. Several times [illegible] wounded, and the night riders lost [illegible]. In the morning the warehouses were a disfigured pile, and the tobacco trust had lost another.

About a month later the riders made a second descent upon Russell-

MAY SELECT ROSWELL

DICKERSON TO DECIDE ON BALL PARK TODAY.

Also Considering Zoo Proposition. Predicts Western League Here. Names Club Officials.

Within the next 24 hours the decision will be made whether the baseball park for the Colorado Springs team in the Colorado State league will be at Roswell park or at the Zoo. Manager E. W. Dickerson, with President A. J. Graves and Secretary H. R. Hahn of the local club, was in the city yesterday and went over the two propositions thoroughly. When he left for Denver last night, he announced that work on one or the other will begin early next week, and that whichever park is selected will be in shape for the opening of the season with Selee's Denver team on May 9.

The three men met with Alderman John J. Coughlin, owner of the Zoo, who made a proposition practically to give the club a free site, with liberal terms on a five-year lease for the building of a park diagonally opposite the Zoo, with grandstand accommodating 1,500 and bleachers for 600. In the evening a conference was held at the Colorado Springs Driving club relative to the Roswell race track, and the proposition, which had been dropped in favor of that at the Zoo, was renewed by the directors under more favorable terms, extensive improvements being offered in order to put the field in the best shape for a baseball park. One strong argument in favor of the north end park is that better street car accommodations can be secured. It appeared likely last night that the Roswell park would be favored.

Manager Dickerson was enthusiastic over the prospects for the team here. "Colorado Springs is a fine town, and from all reports I hear is ripe for a good baseball team. Of one thing the fans may be sure and that is that we will put a strong team here. We expect their patronage, but I have been in the business long enough to know that we cannot expect it unless we deliver the goods and that is what we propose to do.

"We want to make this as much a Colorado Springs proposition as possible, and if I thought there was any prejudice against myself as a Denver man managing the team, I would turn it over to a local man. We want the merchants and people generally to feel that it is their team. In fact there will be several Colorado Springs boys on the team.

Sees Western League Here.

"I regard this team simply as the forerunner of a Western league nine. Inside of another year, I think the Western will be wanting to get into Colorado Springs, and after it demonstrates what a good ball town it is, it seems to me that the Western will welcome it back."

"Doc" Graves, well known in Colorado baseball circles because of his experience in handling the Denver Stockyards team, has been selected by Dickerson as president of the Colorado Springs club, while Harry R. Hahn of this city will be secretary.

Infielder Signed.

The signing of Joe Ganzel of Grand Rapids as manager is now simply a proposition of getting together on terms. In answer to Dickerson's request that he take the team, he replied that while he was tied up in Grand Rapids he would consider the proposition as soon as he learned the terms.

The first player to be signed for the Colorado Springs team is Infielder Walter Ragan, who formerly played with the Charleston championship team in the South Atlantic league. He has been short stop on the Denver All-Stars this spring, where he has made good. When Dickerson makes his trip to Colorado Springs next week he will make further announcements regarding the new players. It is announced that Frank Moorshead, formerly of the Salida team, who has also been playing on the Denver All-Stars has been secured by Frank Selee as manager of his Denver team.

The meeting of the league to adopt the schedule will be held here on the call of President Alfred Damon Runyon the latter part of this month. Following Denver, on May 9 and 10, the Iron Workers and Trinidad will probably play here on successive Saturdays and Sundays.

TIGERS MEET SACRED HEART

One of the Best Games of Season on Schedule for Tomorrow Afternoon.

Sacred Heart will be the opponent for the Colorado College Tigers on Washburn field tomorrow afternoon. This will be one of the hardest fought and best games of the year. The Tigers opened their Denver vacation tour with the Catholics, and were beaten 8 to 5, this being the only defeat they have suffered this season, outside of the two at the hands of the Western leaguers. The Tigers will go in for blood, and if they put up the kind of ball they have been dishing out in the last few games should be able to turn the tables.

Sacred Heart has a new pitcher who is said to be a wonder, as well as a new center fielder. The team is composed of a good bunch of hitters, and plays ball every minute, so that Captain Schmid and his men will have to get into the game for all they are worth to win. The Sacred Heart team has announced itself in the race for the baseball pennant, so that this game will have an important bearing on the awarding of that trophy. They have been beaten by the Miners.

CITY BRIEFS

TO WED. A marriage license was issued yesterday in the office of the county clerk to Roy Eden and Ethel Marvin, both of Trinidad.

MAJOR WILLIS of San Francisco, Cal., will conduct special meetings at the Salvation Army hall today and tomorrow, April 17 and 18, at which everybody is welcome.

MEETING POSTPONED.—The meeting of the teachers of the First Presbyterian Sunday school, which was announced for this evening, will not be held this week.

OBSERVE DAY.—Yesterday, which was Maudy Thursday, was observed by the local Scottish Rite Masons by the usual ceremony of breaking bread together between 5 and 7 o'clock.

MARRIED.—Roy Eden, night marshal of Victor and Miss Ethel Mardin of Trinidad, were married yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of the Rev. J. H. Franklin, 1626 Wood avenue. The couple will make their home in Victor.

THE passion service will be held as usual in St Stephen's church on Good Friday, from 12 to 3. There will be addresses on the Seven Last Words and hymns and prayers. People are requested to enter or leave the church only during the singing of the hymns.

SPECIAL SERVICES. Special Easter services will be held by the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The cantata, "The Risen King," will be sung by the chorus. An orchestra will furnish special music. All friends of the school are cordially invited to be present.

CHURCH SERVICES.—The Swedish Lutheran church will hold services this evening at 8 o'clock. All Scandinavians are invited. On Easter Sunday services will be held in the morning at 10:45 o'clock and in the evening at 7:30 o'clock. The Sunday school will give a program at the evening service.

ACCEPTS CALL.—The Rev. David G. Monfort of the El Bethel Presbyterian church in Pueblo, has accepted the call to the Emmanuel Presbyterian church in this city. The Rev. Mr. Monfort will assume his duties here the latter part of May or the first of June. He succeeds the Rev. J. C. Worley, resigned, who will go to Japan as a missionary.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.—Ramey Vanvil, employed by the Crissey-Fowler Lumber company as a teamster, was knocked down yesterday afternoon and run over by his team of horses, while reloading some lumber, which had fallen off the wagon. The accident occurred in front of the Antlers hotel. Vanvil's hand was badly crushed, and he received a few bruises on the back of his head. He was taken to the St. Francis hospital and attended by Dr. P. H. Perkins, jr.

SMITH'S CHOCOLATES.

The lovers of pure, rich candies, made by the expert confectioner, cannot but be delighted with Smith's chocolates. A good many years of active experience, and the invariable practice of using only the very highest grade of ingredients, combine to produce in Smith's candies the very acme of toothsomeness.

Mr. Smith, who has recently taken the entire store room formerly occupied by the Zobrist pharmacy, has put in a new set of fixtures, with handsome wall mirrors, giving it a clean, up-to-date appearance, and has on display a most attractive stock of high grade confectionery, every piece of which is made by him or under his personal supervision, right on the premises.

Names lettered free on 10 cent eggs at Mueth's.

THREE SERVICES AT GRACE

Music Will Be Feature of Good Friday Observance.

Good Friday will be observed by Grace Episcopal church today with three services, one in the morning at 10 o'clock, one in the afternoon from noon to 3 o'clock and one in the evening.

At the morning service, the choir will render Lacey Baker's beautiful cantata arrangement of "The Story of the Cross," one of the prettiest compositions of its kind ever written. At the evening service, at 8 o'clock, the choir will give Sir John Stainer's great sacred masterpiece, "The crucifixion." That this service will be attended by a crowd that will pack the church to the doors is assured, as more than 400 invitation cards have been given out to those who have requested them and more than 100 others have asked for them in vain, as the supply is exhausted. These tickets must be presented at the northwest door of the church before 7:45 o'clock or they will be of no use, as at that time the doors will be thrown open to the public. Extra chairs will be put in the church to accommodate the crowd.

The choir held its last rehearsal last night. The soloists are Llewellyn Jones of Denver, A. D. Aitken of this city, basso; Oliver Ralston of this city, baritone. Mr. Ralston takes the place of George B. Tyler, who is prevented from participating by the death of his mother-in-law, Mrs. B. F. Williams. The choir will consist of 30 boys, five altos, five tenors and five basses.

The program of the cantata is as follows:

Tenor Solo, Recitative, "Gethsemane" ..... Mr. Llewellyn Jones.
Bass and Tenor Solos, With Choruses, Interspersed, "The Agony" .....
"Processional to Calvary." Organ Prelude, Followed by Chorus, "Fling Wide the Gates." .....
Bass Solo, Recitative ..... Mr. A. D. Aitken.
Hymn, "The Mystery of the Divine Humiliation" .....
Bass Solo .....
Tenor Solo, "The Mystery of the Divine Humiliation" .....
Chorus (unaccompanied), "God So Loved the World" .....
Hymn, "The Litany of the Passion" ..
Tenor Solo and Chorus, "Father, Forgive Them" .....
Bass Solo, "So Thou Liftest Thy Divine Petition" .....
Hymn, "The Mystery of Intercession"
Choir, Recitative .....
Hymn, "The Adoration of the Crucified" .....
Solos, Male Quartets and Choruses, "When Jesus Therefore Saw His Mother" .....
Bass Solo and Chorus, "Is It Nothing to You" .....
Chorus, "The Appeal of the Crucified"
Tenor Recitative and Male Quartet, "After This, Jesus Knowing That All Things Were Now Accomplished"
Hymn, "All for Jesus" .....
Sevenfold Amen.

TO SHOW VISITORS GOOD TIME

Pikes Peak Press Club Will Entertain Newspaper Men—The Sights After Convention.

Advices received from those in charge of the national Democratic convention in Denver indicates that every large daily paper in the United States will have special representatives there and that there will be a number of European papers represented by special correspondents. Since it is practically assured that the greater number of these newspaper writers will visit the Pikes Peak region before returning to their homes, the Pikes Peak Press club will make a special effort to entertain them fittingly while they are in Colorado Springs.

The value of the advertising to be secured by this means is especially appreciated by the members of the press club. It is the sort of favorable publicity that can not be purchased or secured in any other manner than by favorably impressing the writers themselves. The entertainment provided by the Pikes Peak Press club for the delegates to the International League of Press clubs at the Denver meeting in 1906 was pronounced the most unique and enjoyable of the entire western trip and never before equaled at any previous annual meeting.

While it will be impossible to provide anything of the sort for the newspaper writers attending the Denver convention, the members of the Press club will entertain all who come and will try to make their stay in Colorado Springs one to be long remembered.

GRAND COUNCIL HERE TODAY

Royal Arcanum Delegates From All Parts of State Will Attend Annual Meeting.

Delegates to the Colorado grand council of the Royal Arcanum began coming into the city yesterday, and every section of the state will be represented in Odd Fellows hall at 10 o'clock this morning when the annual gathering will be called to order.

At today's sessions the usual business will be transacted, officers elected and delegates chosen to the national council. The meeting will close with a banquet at the Alamo hotel at 7:30 o'clock this evening, at which it is expected there will be 100 present.

Some of the grand officers reached the city yesterday and were entertained by H. Strang, chairman of the reception committee of Eldorado council No. 114 of Colorado Springs. They were taken through the Garden of the Gods and over the High drive. Headquarters of the grand council will be at the Alamo hotel.

Among the grand officers who arrived here yesterday are: Dr. Charles W. Nutting, Denver, grand regent; S. H. Stevens, Trinidad, grand vice regent, and Howard Platt, Leadville, grand treasurer.

OATH OF OFFICE—Mayor-elect A. M. Wilson and the newly-elected board of trustees of Manitou took the oath of office before H. S. Francisco yesterday and will succeed the present officers at the council meeting next Tuesday night when all appointive offices will be filled.

NIGHT RIDERS' CRIMES

ville. There were 610,000 pounds of tobacco stored there and that went up in smoke. Telephone and telegraph are put out of commission. Policemen and firemen who attempted to interfere were advised to go home and keep quiet. The advice looked good to them, and they took it. Not a soul was hurt here. It was necessary, for the name "Night Riders" commanded respect and obedience.

An attempt upon Clarksburg was repulsed. Springfield set a guard with a gatling gun, and was not molested. Dycusburg, on the other hand, passed a night of terror, with its buildings in flames, its streets full of armed men, and some of its citizens—including the wife of one—being beaten in the public street.

It is almost impossible at a distance to realize the conditions. The entire community is demoralized. There was scarcely a night last month in which some barn was not burned, some farmer or his wife dragged from bed and beaten with whips, some city raided, or some crop destroyed. Under date of February 9 a correspondent of the Boston Transcript writes: "Last night a well-planned raiding party swept down on Fredonia. . . . Two nights ago a band of 75 night riders, crossing the state line, attacked at midnight a farmer and his son, who had just finished loading their tobacco on wagons to get it to market. After a battle, in which father and son were wounded and their ammunition exhausted, the marauders entered the barn, shot the horses, dynamited the wagons, and fired the whole.

"Proceeding to the next farm, they whipped two negroes, one almost fatally, and burned a barn full of tobacco—in all, ten tons of leaf destroyed that night. The night before last they descended within three miles of Hopkinsville, dragged Lucian Means, a white man, from his house, and severely beat him with rawhides. Three nights ago they invaded Dycusburg . . . ." That is the record of less than a week in the immediate vicinity of Hopkinsville.

The Lucian Means alluded to was, after being beaten, invited to come in and sign the agreement. He recognized the men who had whipped him—neighbors living not far from him—but with his back still smarting from the lash, he went to town and signed the association's pledge. A man named Barr had a farm near Adair, Ky. The night riders burned his barns. Immediately every farmer in the neighborhood asked the association to open its pledge books and let them sign. Do you blame them?

Defied by One Man.

The same Boston Transcript correspondent—and he is quoted because that paper is the backbone of New England's journalistic conservatism—tells of a well-known planter in Clarksville, Tenn., the chief market town of the patch, who was threatened with fire, for his independence, and who wrote to one of the prominent association officers as follows:

"Dear Sir—I have received warning from the night riders. When you hear that my barn has been burned, myself molested, any member of my family or kin troubled, or trespass of any sort committed on my property, you get a double-barreled shotgun and load it full of buckshot. You will need it when you meet me. For just so sure as anything is done to me I will come right to hunt for you and get an accounting. There are men in this town who will tell you if I mean what I say."

The man was sincere, and for two years he has grown his tobacco unmolested. Of course, the association indignantly denies responsibility for night rider outrages. But—this man has sold his crops where he liked, and expressed his opinion of the night riders and the association, and he has been let severely alone.

Again, another man, a Hill Billy—as those outside the association are called—was about to be visited by night riders. He was warned by members of the association, men who may not have been of the night rider organization, but certainly were members of the association. This man has maintained his independence, but at considerable cost. An attempt was made to scrape his plant beds, and his sons drove off the riders with buckshot. His barns were threatened. Finally, one plant bed was scraped. Matches and dynamite were put in his wheat. His family has been cut out of church. The local school teacher has been ordered not to teach Hill Billy children, and one lost her job by insisting on doing it. Finally they made war on his wife by whipping the help, and threatened to kill any negro woman who put foot on their land. So that now the wife of this Kentucky gentleman, a Southern planter of the old school, a veteran of the Confederate army though she is past 60, has to do all the work of the tubs and the kitchen. This warfare has been maintained for three years. The planter has decided to give up tobacco. He knows that if he wanted to move, he could not sell his farm.

Curious Attitude of the People.

The curious part of it is the attitude of the people. Nine out of ten Kentuckians, even those employed in the departments here, who have no personal interest in the crop, are in sympathy with night riding. Governor Patterson of Tennessee will not even admit that he considers it illegal or wrong, or that the state is opposed to it. Governor Willson of Kentucky, on the other hand, is outspoken in his condemnation. He has placed a regular army officer in command of the state troops, has displaced the local guards with mountaineers, who have nothing to fear or respect in the black patch, and has appealed to the old Ku-Klux statutes for power to crush the night riders. The use of the militia has already cost the state $12,000.

In addition, Governor Willson has recently sent a special message to the legislature, urging prompt measures to restore order, and an immediate appropriation of $25,000 to assist in prosecuting the riders. He also asks for additional power for the attorney general, in cases where it appears the local authorities "are likely, for any reason, to fail to prosecute such offenses faithfully." So far the prosecuting authorities have indicted one man, and convicted or punished none of the persons guilty of these outrages.

Meanwhile the raids continue. Men sleep with loaded shotguns beside their beds, or spend long, cold nights guarding their crops. Countrymen are flocking to the towns for police protection; farms are for sale at absurd prices, and no one will buy. Everybody expects a clash between the riders and the soldier boys, and when it comes there will be a pretty bit of fighting. Meanwhile, the possibility of Uncle Sam having to take a hand in the game looms large on the horizon, and the more law-abiding, much as it hurts their pride in their state, would hail even that with relief if it brought an end to the present condition of anarchy in old Kentucky.

Why Overheat Yourself?

Much of your summer pleasure depends upon having a cool and comfortable kitchen. Why not be prepared for hot days before they come? Ask your dealer to show the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. It's a wonder.

Does the work of your big range in every particular, but has this great advantage over it, that it never heats the kitchen. The makes summer days endurable. Think of preparing a meal in less time than you'd do it on the coal range, and then sitting down at table with the family not overheated, but entirely comfortable.

NEW PERFECTION
Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove

That is the way you will do when you have a "New Perfection Oil" Cook-Stove in your kitchen. Made in three sizes; fully warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

THE Rayo Lamp is a center draft lamp of great illuminating power. Large font holds oil for several hours' burning. Free from all objectionable features a splendid family lamp. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

CONTINENTAL OIL COMPANY
(INCORPORATED)

FRESIDENT ROOSEVELT SAYS

that outdoor exercise is needed by the American people. That's all very well, but how can people with rheumatism follow that advice? The answer is simple—use Ballard's Snow Liniment and the rheumatism will go, leaving you as spry as a colt. Gives quick and permanent relief from rheumatism, neuralgia, lame back and all pains. Sold by all dealers.

THE GIVING OF BONUSES.

Practice in New York Banks That Does Considerable Harm.

From the New York Press.

All this talk about hard times is a conspiracy against somebody. It is more of a pretense than a reality. The aged bellwether has been tingling his ting for some time, and all the little bleatings are bleating their bleats, imagining they will receive some husks of the bellwether's oats.

One of the big New York banks which was said to be in trouble (but which was not) presented to each of its employes a pass book on the first of January, instead of the usual cash bonus. The book handed to the lowest employe showed a deposit of $50. I do not know how much the highest employe got. The president said: "Gentlemen, you are at liberty to draw out the amount of your deposit, but I think you had better leave it here and add to it." Not one cent has been drawn.

This giving of bonuses has been the ruination of many young man of liberal tastes. Of course, every small bank must follow in the footsteps of the mighty Morgan, or be counted among the down-and-outs. Morgan's bonuses were foolishly large. They came to be expected regularly.

If a clerk got a salary of $5,000 a year he felt quite sure of getting a bonus of $2,500 at Christmas. The bonus at times amounted to as much as the full salary. So great was the faith in Mr. Morgan that his men were accustomed to discount the future. They deliberately speculated on their prospects, and usually won out. The $5,000 man calculated on $7,500, and spent his salary long before Christmas. If an extra $2,500 came along, he was that much to the good.

It would be interesting to know how many thousands of clerks in banks and brokerage offices overdiscounted their bonuses last Christmas or New Year's. These bonuses were not forthcoming.

Men discovered at the last moment that they had gone into debt to the extent of their prospects; and there were no prospects. They lived up to the limit of their salaries, expecting the usual windfall, and the windfall failed to arrive. They are now borrowing a dollar here and a dollar there to tide over the withdrawal of bonus. Those who have not been dismissed expect a bonus next Christmas.

HOLLAND'S SOURCE OF WEALTH.

From the Baltimore American.

"When it comes to coffee, sugar, indigo spices, and tobacco all the nations of the world have to take off their hats to the little kingdom of Holland," said Mr. Karl van Valkenberg, of Amsterdam, at the Stafford.

"Once in every two weeks the Netherlands company sells more coffee than all the rest of the world's markets combined. This fortunate situation comes about through the ownership of our island colonies. Sumatra, which is almost thirty times as large as Holland, sends its tobacco crop to the home government. Java, tremendously larger, is also ours, and to it we are indebted for our coffee. Borneo, which would make a dozen of us, is our source of coal supply, and from the islands of Bianca and Billiton we get vast quantities of tin. So you see that Holland's riches come largely from her insular possessions. Amsterdam and Antwerp cut the diamonds of the world."

THE CIRCUS

A circus finds it necessary at all times to keep his muscles and joints supple. That is the reason that hundreds of them keep a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment always on hand. A sure cure for rheumatism, cuts, sprains, sore throat, lame back, contracted muscles, corns, bunions and all pains. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by all dealers.

WHEN YOU CATCH COLD

Do not take chances on it wearing away or experiment with some unknown preparation which may leave the bronchial tubes and lungs weakened and susceptible to attack from the germs of Pneumonia or Consumption.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

not only stops the cough but heals and strengthens the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Contains no opiates.

Be Sure You Get Foley's

There are substitutes made to sell on the good name of Foley's Honey and Tar. Beware of them. You should have confidence in a cough cure that has been sold with universal satisfaction for thirty-five years. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar is in a yellow Package. See that you get it.

A Mother's Testimony

This is to certify that my daughter was down for almost one year with a cold. The doctors finally pronounced it consumption. We had given up hope for her recovery. I was given a sample bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. I gave it all to her in about three hours. It stopped the cough, and gave her rest. I sent next day and bought a 50c bottle and began giving it. In three month's time she was well. There can not be too much said in favor of Foley's Honey and Tar. It saved my child's life. Mrs. George Batzer, Fountain Crest, Wis.

Three sizes—25c, 50c and $1.00. The 50-cent size contains two and one-half times as much as the small size and the $1.00 bottle almost six times as much.

CONUNDRUM IS LEASFD

COMPANY HAS BEEN FORMED FOR THAT PURPOSE.

Ophelia Tunnel Is to Be Pushed Forward Rapidly—It Is Planned to Cut Through Bull Hill.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., April 16.—A two years' lease has been secured by local mining men on the Conundrum mine on Gold hill, and as soon as details are completed the property will be actively operated. A leasing company will be formed and incorporated. The property has been a steady producer in the past, and is owned by the Ethel Louise Gold Mining company.

The Ophelia or Moffat tunnel, which has been driven a distance of approximately one and one-half miles through Gold and into Raven hill, is to be carried forward. The tunnel project is planned to cut through Bull hill at a depth of 1,000 feet, and will be carried through to the deep workings of the Victor mine. At the present time a number of properties operated through the bore are producing a heavy tonnage, and their operators are paying royalties to the tunnel company receiver. It is reported on what is believed reliable authority that the indebtedness incurred before the receiver took charge is to be wiped out and the company, known as the Pueblo and Suburban railroad company, placed on a sound financial standing.

The old tailings dump at the site of the Rosebud mill in Anaconda gulch, south of this city, has been leased to Craig, Norris and Wright, and work commenced on its removal on Monday. The mill built by a French syndicate was destroyed by fire in 1905, and no attempt was made to rebuild the plant. At the time the plant was in operation the chlorination system was employed, and a large percentage of the values in the ores treated were lost. Tests show values from $6 to as high as $14.85 a ton, and the lessees will load and ship the dump to one of the valley plants.

IS PROVING SURPRISE

BLACK DIAMOND IS PRODUCING BONANZA ORE.

Very Little Prospecting Has Been Done in This Section of Womack Hill St. Louis Man's Lease.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., April 16.—A two-carload shipment was made several days ago from the Black Diamond claim on Womack hill under lease to Edward Cornet, a prominent wholesale grocer of St. Louis.

The Black Diamond has proved to be one of the surprises of the camp, for while it is in a very promising location, very little prospecting has been done on the hill, and it is due entirely to the efforts of the present lessees that bonanza ore has been encountered.

Drifting at a depth of 200 feet, a two-foot vein carrying picture values was encountered, and which has proven by systematic prospecting to be a permanent ore shoot. Stoping on the level is now in progress, and to further demonstrate the extent of the ore body, a winze was sunk to a depth of 40 feet, the values at the bottom of it being, if anything, better than at the 200-foot level.

The vein broken from wall to wall gives average returns of from three to four ounces gold a ton, with very little sorting. The shaft is the deepest one sunk on Womack hill, and it is generally believed that with systematic prospecting more pay shoots will be opened up.

The lessee expects to materially increase the output and put on an extra force of men with that end in view.

STOCK PRICES HIGHER

DEMAND ATTRIBUTED LARGELY TO PROFESSIONAL ORIGIN.

Market Shows More Life Than Expected on Eve of Three-Day Holiday.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The stock market showed more life today than was expected on the eve of a triple holiday. The tone was more strong at times. The demand which advanced prices was attributed largely to professional origin. The board room traders have been bearish and the short account proved the more extended when it came to evening up contracts preliminary to the holiday. The movement was languid and only noticeable in its contrast with the entire stagnation which was expected. Some attention was attracted by a statement, apparently inspired, that the Erie financial settlement was not the eleventh hour makeshift it has been assumed to be, but was the carrying out of a definite plan having the assent of the company's bankers and prepared some time before as an alternative to cover the failure of the plan officially offered. This fact was urged against the supposition that friction had existed between the Morgan and Harriman powers in the Erie settlement. There were reports in circulation also of sales having been made of large holdings of railroad stocks held by other railroads in the furtherance of policies of community of interest in the past. These rumors applied especially to the Vanderbilt holdings of Lehigh Valley and to holdings of Reading and other companies. The purchase was reported by J. P. Morgan and company of a $15,000,000 bond issue of a subsidiary company of the Lake Shore, which gave hopeful impression of the growth of improvement in the investment situation.

Union Pacific was a leader in the day's market and absorbed a large share of the total transactions. Some effect was produced by reiteration of reports of plans for the comprehensive advance in freight rates by the railroads and of the sanction of this action by the interstate commerce commission.

The Baltimore & Ohio made the first report of March net earnings that came to hand, and its $469,127 decrease, compared with March of last year, did not promise well for the influence of economies effected by the railroads in conserving their net return. Crop news was favorable in the reports of rains in Kansas and in the assurances expressed by the Cincinnati Price Current against any harm from drouth up to the present time. There was some heavy buying of U. S. Steel, and the strength of this stock had added sentimental effect from the presence in this city of a large gathering of iron manufacturers, although the object of their consultations was known to be to fortify themselves against the cutting of prices which is acknowledged to be in progress.

Denials were made in the official steel quarters of reports that another general meeting of the steel trade to be held today to reopen the discussion of a cut in prices of finished products.

Known movements of money up to Wednesday night indicate a cash gain by the banks of nearly $10,000,000 after allowing for the $1,000,000 engaged for export to Paris. Considerably more than half of this amount was yielded from subtreasury operations, but as these were effected largely by redemption of national banknotes shipped from the interior points, the heavy tide of the currency movement towards New York is still the feature of the banking position. Foreign exchange held firm. A million more was taken for export to Paris, and additional gold exports are taken for granted. Call money was loaned as high as 2 per cent, compared with a maximum of 1¾ per cent on the previous days this week. The declaration of the dividend on Amalgamated Copper at an unchanged rate was in accord with expectations, and was not a market influence.

The bond market showed considerable variety, and a firm tone, although the aggregate volume of transactions was not large. Total sales par value, $6,029,000. United States 2s, registered, have advanced ¼ and the 2s, coupon, ¼ per cent on call during the week.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG

EARLY WEAKNESS CAUSED BY RAINFALL IN KANSAS.

Sentiment Continues Bearish Until the Last Hour—Corn Is Firm; Oats Weak.

CHICAGO, April 16.—The wheat market opened firm because of small receipts in the northwest, strong cables and dry weather in Kansas and Nebraska. It soon weakened, however, on reports from various points in Kansas that the much needed rain had fallen. Sentiment continued bearish until the final hour, when a sharp advance occurred on the smallness of shipments from Argentina and predictions that the world's shipments for the week will be light. The close was strong. May opened ¼@¼ to ½@¾ higher at 91⅞ to 92⅛, sold off to 90⅞, and then advanced to 92⅝. The close was 92⅝. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 158,400 bushels. Primary receipts were 265,000 bushels, against 688,000 bushels on the same day last year. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 177 cars, against 191 cars last week and 348 one year ago.

Corn was firm early in the day because of continued small receipts, but later the market became weak on selling by longs and cash interests. Trade was light all day. The close was weak and near the low point. May opened unchanged at 67⅞, advanced to 67¾ and then declined to 66⅞, where it closed. Local receipts were 97 cars, with 11 of contract grade.

Oats were weak because of the favorable outlook on the new crop. The volume of business was small. May opened unchanged at 33⅝, sold up to 33⅞, declined to 33 and closed at 33¼. Local receipts were 101 cars.

Provisions were quiet, and prices were firm because of smaller receipts of live hogs. At the close, May pork was up 10c, at $13; lard was 5@7½c higher, at $9.07½@$9.10; ribs were 7½c higher, at $8.80.

Sheffield

Since the day when silver plate was applied with a hammer instead of electricity has Sheffield ware been the standard of plate goodness. Our stock contains some splendid reproductions which combine the beauty of design and very excellent quality characteristic of the older pieces. Embodying much hand work it consequently has a value in proportion. Imitators often substitute machine work to offer attractive prices.

Easter veils and veiling — GIDDINGS BROS — New jewelry for Easter

Pre Easter sales Friday, Saturday

Two days' business that will make history for the Giddings store. These Friday and Saturday sales, FIRST INAUGURATED BY US some time ago, have grown to be of the greatest importance, and are anxiously looked forward to by hundreds of careful buyers. Special days, such as holidays, generally are celebrated by some marked event. This store proposes to make these two pre-Easter days notable merchandising days by a special sale event, worthy of the most careful consideration.

46 in. muslin 14c

Pepperel pillow case muslin, 46 inches wide and bleached. Pepperel muslins are recognized as one of the best for service, and the width we have selected is the width most used. Two days, yard 14c

Most unusual pre-Easter sale of all our dress goods, two days 20% off

Think for a moment what this sale means to you. There are two days till Easter, the time to begin wearing Spring clothes. Now, right at the very beginning of a new season we offer to you a 20 per cent discount on our great stock of dependable woolens. It's hardly necessary to tell you of this broad assortment of new dress materials, for all know what an excellent stock the Giddings store carries.

We will state, however, that you'll not find a better selected lot, even in the entire state. Our selections and qualities are second to none, and no other house ever made so important an offer at such an opportune time. Another demonstration of the Giddings Store's progressiveness and determination to do something out of the ordinary. Bear in mind this is a reduction of our ENTIRE STOCK, blacks, white, staple colors and novelties (except Lansdown). We're going to make these two days memorable ones. It will pay you well to attend.

Extraordinary pre Easter sale of French Pattern Hats

Beautiful millinery creations in a sale that is quite unusual. When we opened our millinery section we started on a policy of "doing things out of the ordinary" and the results have far exceeded our expectations. Now we're going this one better by offering you an opportunity to secure an elegant Easter hat at a remarkable saving. These hats are direct importations and the most popular models that Fashion has decreed correct. There's beauty and character in their every line.

In several instances the price is cut almost half

In all there are 13 hats and the most delightful lot you could wish to see. Each one an exclusive model, secured especially for our opening display.
